POOR COAST DEFENSES.

YORK'S HARBORS ARE IN SHAMEFUL CONDITION.

Committee Appointed by the United States Senate Concludes its investigation and Will Re-port Before Congress Adjourns. What the Members Say.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
NEW YORK, June 2.—The Herald NEW YORK, June 2.—The Herald this morning says that the committee appointed by the resolution of the United States Senate to extend the coast defenses has been in this city since Friday night, and has examined the harbor and other defenses, concluding its labors yesterday morning. According to Chairman W. C. Squire, United States Senator from Washington, the report he will make to the Senate will conclusively show that the coninclusively show that the con ate will conclusively snow that the con-dition of affairs is somewhat shamefu and unworthy of a nation such as this He said that this committee would make the report before Congress adjourned in order that it may know the chances that are being taken in case of war. The Committee on Coast Defenses consists of Gen. Hawley, Senator Squire of Washington, chairman; Proctor, White and Butier. Gen. Hawley and Senator Proctor are familiar with the subject, but did not accompany Messrs. Squire, White and Butier. In their stead were Senators Dubois, Tillman and Perkins of the Naval Committee; Senator Cannon of Utah and Representative Wilson of Idaho.

"We concluded to see for ourselves," said Chairman Squire, "the condition of the defenses of the greatest commercial port in the United States. The defenses are today better, as they should be, than those of any port in the United States. Yet these defenses are entirely below what is necessary to give any kind of defense against the foe.

"Our party, accompanied by Maj."

entirely below what is necessary to give any kind of defense against the foe.

"Our party, accompanied by Maj. Phipps and Capt. Healy of the Ordnance Department, and Capt. Hodges of the engineers, who had been ordered to assist us, left the battery on the Ordnance Department steamer. We went to Sandy Hook and examined the works for defense, the direct-fire guns and their empiacements.

"If the condition we found existing in New York is so bad, and it is better than that of most great cittles, what must be their condition, some seventy-seven in all. In New York alone we have $400.-000,000 of destructible property. What we need to properly defend New York is ninety-three high-power long-range guns of eight, ten and twelve inches and in addition to these we need 12s twelve-inch steel rified mortars and 200 rapid-firing guns. If the whole of the manufacturing facilities in the country were put to work now it would take at least three years, to properly fortify New York, It would take at least seven months to make the forgings for one gun, and then it would require from six months to one year to complete the defenses that are absolutely necessary. At Sandy Hook we found but two twelve-inch guns ready to be fired, and these had no range-finders and were lacking the details necessary to good, effective work. There are no men kept there, and if troops should be sent there they would not know what to do with those guns. Why, the place is conducted in the most peculiar manner. An instance: The men who were there could not get up steam to show the committee the rise and fall of these two guns.

"At Fort Wadsworth we found five eight-inch guns. none ready for use.

Gate defenses, saw Willets Point and made a careful study of things there. There are five points to be defended in the vicinity, Senator Squire says, and those points do not include Fisher's Island.

At Willets Point, the committee found two tea-inch guns, which were not in place, and three farse-inch guns which were in the same condition. The system of using torpedoes, he says, is almost useless unless the torpedoes are protected by guns and flashlights, which are lacking. Fort Schuyler was also inspected yesterday by several of the committee.

NEW WHITE LIGHT.

nas A. Edison Solves His Pr lem—A Great Invention. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

MEW YORK, June 2.—Thomas A. Edison said today:
"I have succeeded in solving the problem of the new white light. The lamp is finished. That is, the scientific part of the work, and that solves the problem. The remainder is mechanical."

The new light or fluorescent lamp, as Edison has named it, is somewhat similar to the incandescent lamp now used everywhere. There is not so per fect a vacuum as in the incandescent lamp. Unlike the electric lamp, the whole globe glows with a pure white fect a vacuum as in the incandescent lamp. Unlike the electric lamp, the whole globe glows with a pure white light of marvelous illumining power. The light comes from a metallic crystal known as "fungstate." The slightest rubbing of these crystals will make them glow, said Edison.

"I have succeeded in fusing these crystals into the inside of a glass globe by heating the glass until it is soft enough to receive the tungstate crystals, which it holds firmly when it cools. Two wires enter the globe at one end, but don't meet. By means of an induction current generated in a faradic battery, the molecules of the wires are thrown into motion, and the impulse thus given travels along the wires until it reaches the ends inserted into the globe. This molecule impulse is communicated to the molecules of air within the globe. These air molecules are driven with almost inconceivable rapidity against the crystals of tungstate, welded into the inner walls of the glass. The impact causes the crystals to glow. The glow caused by a single blow of these air molecules is, of course, but slight, but multiplied thousands of times, and the blows repeated continuously in an enormously rapid rate, they produce the new white light.

"The new incandescent transforms 96 per cent, of the electrical force into heat and only 5 per cent. Is turned into light. With my new lamp, I absolutely can discover no heat. Not satisfied with one test and concluding my instruments, but with the same result. I am tompelled to believe that nearly the whole force used in the new lamp is employed in producing the light. I do not attempt to explain it; I only accept it as a fact. The high amount of electricity required in the incandescent lamp to overcome the tremendous loss of electricity required in the incandescent lamp to overcome the illuminating effect that a two-candle incandescent lamp does. A two-candle incandescent lamp does. A two-candle incandescent lamp does. A two-candle incandescent lamp whill fast a room as well as a sixteen-candle power inca

WASHINGTON (D. C.,) June 2.— (Special Dispatch.) San Pedro goes up one notch. The Rivers and Har-Bill was this afternoon pror passed over the President's veto. The was 220 to 60, showing a wide margin over the necessary two-thirds. There is no doubt of its passage in the Senate. Senators Perkins and White are both confident of this result. The six States and the commercial inter six States and the commercial inter-ests along four great rivers are inter-sted in the passage of this bill, and it cannot be defeated. Another observer points out that it is a case similar to that of the jury who tried the fellow for stealing the hog-nearly every juryman had a piece of the meat. I am able to assure the friends of the Pedro site that the utmost watch fulness is being exercised over the mat of the selection of the me the new commission provided for in the bill. Senator White is alert and sleepless, and the President is "onto his job," in this harbor matter. After a tremendous conflict, the Huntington manipulators have been beaten al along the line thus far, and if they at tempt to control the appointment of the commission in the interest of the rejected harbor site they will be again folled.

The completion of the convention hall at St. Louis and the turning of it over to the committee has had the ef fect of silencing all gossip about a change of location for the National Republican Convention. The performance will come off as advertised. Th band will play, and the G.O.P. elephant will go 'round all right. Now that the question of Presidential nomination is by common con-sent settled, talk about the second place begins to fill the air. The newest man in the field, or the last man mentioned, is Joseph H. Man-ley of Maine, the chosen manager of Blaine and the friend of Reed. It is now understood that the Speaker declines the proposed honor in advance, and this fact, it is argued, opens the way for another Maine man. A more notable aspirant for the Vice-Presidency is Fred Grant, who makes a bigger object in the eye of the country than does Manley.

Grant has engaged first-class apartments at St. Louis during the convention for himself and wife, who was Miss Honore of Chicago, and, what is more significant still, his distinguished sister-in-law, Mrs. Potter Palmer, is said to have entered the campaign for Col. Grant, and will enact the role of lobbyist at St. Louis, "the fairest and most resourceful in the land." It and most resourceful in the land." It is learned that her father, Benjamin F. She at the Planters' on June 12, and begin the work of electioneering.

It is claimed that she has a majority of the Illinois delegation pledged to her brother-in-law and that she has her brother-in-law and that she has secured promises from a number of other Republican State leaders to work for Col. Grant's nomination, Senator Cullom is scheduled to put Col. Grant in nomination, and Warner Miller of New York is booked to make the seconding speech. Those who know the resources of diplomacy and the wide acquaintanceship among leaders in politics and finance in all the States at the command of this renowned woman can understand how strong the Grant candidacy will be.

The movements, outgivings and opinions of the unhappy Senator Platt—
"To tambien"—have almost ceased to create interest in Republican circles here. Senator Quay's sudden and unconcealed action in taking a back seat in the McKinley band waron, at the same time conceding the Governor's nomination and giving the figures for the faith that is in him (Quay, not McKinley,) is equivalent to an announcement of the collapse of the anti-McKinley combins. The subsequent proceedings will therefore interest people no further. Mr. Platt shows signs of silence, and has suddenly ceased to furnish anti-McKinley ammunition to the New York press.

The report of the majority of the House Committee on Commerce in favor of the Nicaragua Canal, signed by nine members, has been submitted to the House by Mr. Sherman of New York. It deals with the canal project from the financial and engineering standpoint, and particularly analyses the government board of which Col. Ludlow was chairman. The questions proposed for the board are said to have been definitely settled in the affirmative. The report impeaches the commission's estimates of unit prices on work on the canal by exhaustive quotations from statements of engineers. Whether the death of control of the canal of engineers. estimates of unit prices on work on the canal by exhaustive quotations from statements of engineers. Whether the depth of canal and harbor shall be thirty feet at the outset, whether four locks shall be used instead of three; whether the water elevation should be 110 feet instead of 106, and other differences between the commission and the company are said to be details depending upon whether the policy of pending upon whether the policy pending upon whether the policy of making provisions for all demands in all time to come is adopted. Because of its testimony on unit prices, the re-port reduces the estimates of cost on the basis of the board's plan from $133,-000,000 to $102,000,000, but holds that $100,000,000 will be ample appropriation. Stress is laid upon the prospective benefits of the canal to the Pacific Coast States and the Allegheny coal-Coast States and the Allegheny coal-mining and iron interests. In conclu-sion the report says that the board of engineers has stated that it believes the canal entirely feasible, but differs with the engineers of the company as to the probable cost of the work. The advantages of the canal are so great that, the report says, the canal should be built by government assistance to the company, even if it costs over $150.

Meantime another phase of the case has come up. Two British experts have just arrived in Washington, and are stopping for some time at the British embassy. They are Profs. The social event of the day was the marriage of the Vice-President's daughter, which took place at the New York Avenue Church this evening, when Miss Julia Stevenson was wedded to Rev. Martin D. SENATE AND HOUSE. Review of an Eventful Day in the Two Branches.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, June 2.-At o'clock tonight the long struggle in the Senate over the bill to prohibit the issue of bonds came to an end and the bill was passed by a vote of 32 to 35. The bill, as passed, covers only three lines, as follows:

"Be it enacted, that the issuence of interest-bearing bonds of the United States, for any gurpose whatever, without further authority of Congress, is hereby prohibited."

The voting did not begin until 6:30 o'clock, at which time the chamber was dimly-lighted and the galleries almost empty. o'clock tonight the long struggle in the

A flood of amendments was first voted down, all being defeated. One by Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, gave the executive power to issue bonds in certain emergencies; another, by Senator Aldrich, provided that the act should not impair the obligation to pay in coin. Senator Hill's amendant that the treasury notes be retired act should not impair the obligation to pay in coin. Senator Hill's amendment that the treasury notes be retired when redeemed was tabled, by 43 to 12. Senator Gray's amendment for the substitution of coin notes for treasury notes was defeated without a yea-andnay vote. The last preliminary vote was on Senator Hill's motion to postpone the subject until next December, which was defeated. Then came the final vote with the result stated.

The debate on the Bond Bill lasted throughout the day and was at times very animated. Senator Cannon of Utah made a spirited reply to criticisms of the five Republican Senators, including himself, who voted against the Dingley tariff bill, and declared the measure was a lerislative monstrosity.

Senator Chandler appealed to Senators on the other side of the chamber to join in a patriotic measure to sustain the country's honor. Senator Chandler also paid a tribute to the personal integrity of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle.

Senator Teller spoke in favor of making silver the first and paramount question. Senator Burrows declared that it would have been better had the country gone down in the storm of war than that a measure taking away the last prop to its credit should pass. Senator Palmer of Illinois, also opposed the bill.

Before the Bond Bill was taken up, Senator Morrill of Vermont, chairman of the Finance Committee, spoke on the tariff and finance.

Senator Vest gave notice that he would move tomorrow to take up the River and Harbor Bill over the President's veto, and to unseating, by a vote of 182 to 39. John J. Walsh, the Democratic member from the Eighth New York District, whose place will be filled by John Murray Mitchell, a Republican. Both of these actions were foregone conclusions, so they excited comparatively little interest, although there was a full house to vote on the River and Harbor Bill.

The Harbor Bill was passed by 220 to 60, many more votes than the two-thirds necessary to overrule a veto, and it was passed without debate, although Mr. Dockery of Missouri protested vehemently that debate had been promised. Thirty-nine Democrats voted to override the Presidential objections, and twenty-six Republicans stood by Mr. Cleveland.

The Naval Appropriation Bill was reported from conference with an agreement on all items but the number of battleships. Incidentally, Chairman Cannon of the Committee on Appropriations predicted that Congress would adjourn late next week.

REGULAR SESSION.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The session of the Senate began at 11 o'clock today in anticipation of the closing struggle and final vote on the Butler Bill to prohibit the issue of bonds and a speech on the Dingley Tariff Bill by Senator Morrill, chairman of the Finance Committee. The chaplain in the prayer referred to the fact that the Vice-President would today give his estimable ident would today give his estimated aughter in marriage, and invoked divine benediction on the bride bridestroom.

In reporting the Militia Reorganiza tion Bill Senator Hawley said it would not be called up until next session. Among the bills introduced was one by Senator Cullom of Illinois for a peace Senator Cullom of Illinois for a peace monument at Appomattox, Va.

Senator Chandler of New Hampshire offered a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into certain alleged irregularities in the Southern Judicial District of Indian Territory. Senator Chandler called attention particularly to the reports that receiver's certificates had been issued by authority of the court for the construction of the Denison and Northern Rallway, 104 miles long, no capital being paid in. No action was taken.

Senator Morrill was recognized for a speech on the tariff. His earnest manner and strong voice gave no indication of his advanced age. He referred to the Emergency Tariff Bill passed by the House, and said: "The Democrats have broken away from the leadership of their President and, while marching to the drum and fife of a North Carolina captain, are in such dread lest the Populists should get control of their party that they seem to be in a hurry to become Populists themselves." The Senator declared the Republican narty Populists should get control of i party that they seem to be in a h to become Populists themselves."

"No doubt, had our country been shielded by a sound protective tariff, during the hopeless years of the present Democratic administration, much business distress and woe of unemployed labor might have been averted, but another adverse and sore bewitchery of all business affairs of the United States, hardly less potent than a freetrade tariff, has been the increasing agitation of free coinage of sliver, and on a ratio that would not fail to reduce the standard of value of our money, as well as the whole fabric of public and private credit, to half its present value. An invitation from commercial nations to join in a cobjective agreement for the larger money use of sliver would be accepted by the Republican administration, but it would be more desirable that the United States should receive rather than offer, the invitation, as the American production doubt, had our country a better market for our annual domestic product.

"Were it as certain as some extreme silver advocates represent, that no coperative agreement among the leading nations for a larger use of silver can be obtained, that fact alone would be a cogent and sufficient reason why the United States should decline to stultify itself by embarking single-handed in an experiment so reckless and so distrusted as to be shunned and coldly rejected by the statesmen of every enlightened nation. But this hopeless representation of the silver question in Europe is untrue. The trend of public opinion in Germany and Great Britain favors tolerance of the question."

Senator Aldrich offered the following amendment, as an additional section to follow that prohibiting the issue of bonds:

"Unless in case of emergency it is necessary, in the opinion of the President of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue such bonds in accordance with the provisions of existing laws, to preserve the public credit, or to meet obligations of the United States created by such existing law which cannot otherwise be met, and all such bonds when so issued, shall first be offered at public sale."

Before the debate proceeded Senator Hill suggested that a vote on the Brown resolution, declaring issues of future bonds illegal, should follow the vote on the Brown assented and Senator Butler wanted 6 o'clock tomorrow evening fixed as the time for the vote on the Brown resolution. Senator Brown assented and senator Butler wanted 6 o'clock tomorrow evening fixed as the time for the vote on the Brown resolution. Senator Hill insisted, however, that "the whole bond business" should be cleared to the floor today. Objections were made and no agreement was effected. Senator Brown then resumed his speech of yesterday, discussing bonds and free silver coinage.

Senator Brown was followed by his Utah colleague, Senator Cannon. They had occupied different positions on the Dingley Tariff Bill, the former having voted for and the latter against the consideration. Senator Cannon replied to strictures made on the five Republican Senators who voted against the tariff bill as an "iniquity and monstrosity of legislation," sectional and unjust. He had been acquitted by his conscience and by his constituents. The five Republican Senators Carter and Mantle of Montana, Dubols of Idaho, Teller of Colorado and himself as delegates to the national convention.

"The sentiment of the great intermountain States is for the free coinage of silver," declared Senator Cannon in impassioned tones, "and they look to the leadership of Henry M. Teller rather than to that of the distinguished Senator from Ohio." (Mr.

that the bill and veto be taken up as soon as the vote on the Bond Bill was taken.

Senator Sherman objected, unless an agreement on the Filled Cheese Bill was made. Thereupon Senator Vest gave notice that he would move to take the River and Harbor Bill and veto up tomorrow. Before continuing the Bond debate, Senator Butler sought to have 5 o'clock today fixed for the vote on the Bond Bill, but Senator Teller objected on the ground that the present agreement for a vote before adjournment was ample.

Senator Allison spoke briefly on the Bond Bill. He said it was well known that the bill could be made a law. It was agreed, he said, that the borrowing of money for the government was solely a legislative power, expert as the statutes conferred that power on the executive's branch. Under the circumstances the adoption of the Brown resolution would be a repeal of the only law allowing the executive to borrow money on bonds.

Senator Allison reviewed the causes leading up to the bond law of 1875, which was intended to overcome the instability and panie following the war. He denied the assertion made during the debate that the bonds under the law of 1875 were for the sole purpose of redeeming greenbacks and then cancelling them, after which the bond power ceased. On the contrary, he said, it was to be a continuous power to give a stability to values. No part of the people could be benefited by a fluctuating, unstable, depreciated monometaille currency. No experiment should be made in repealing the very law which brought stability.

As to the seigniorage from silver, Senator Allison showed that seigniorexperiment should be made in repealing the very law which brought stability.

As to the seignlorage from silver, Senator Allison showed that seignlorage could not arise until after the silver was coined; that the present mint capacity was restricted to $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 a year, and that, on that amount, the seignlorage would be limited to $12,000,000 or $15,000,000. So, he said, Senators were playing horse with the great question of the government's paper money. They were running the hazard of going back in thirty days to a paper basis not convertible into coin. In a sharp colloquy with Senator Butler, Senator Allison declared his opposition to fast money, and to the indirection by which the pending bill sought to take a step toward free-silver coinage without waiting for legislative action. "I believe that the United States cannot open its mints to the free coinage of silver without an agreement with other nations," said Senator Allison. "and I will continue to vote against the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 by this country alone."

Senator Chandler deprecated the spirit and manner of the author of the bill (Mr. Butler.) who had made threats and had talked of revolution and bloodshed.

Senator Butler arose to disclaim such utterances.

Senator Butler arose to disclaim such utterances.

Senator Chandler insisted that the Senator's language had conveyed indirect threats, and had tended to revolution and bloodshed.

Senator Chandler held up a newspaper, which he said was the Caucasian, published by Senator Butler in North Carolina, and which contained extreme and violent attacks upon Senators Hill and Sherman and others with whom Senator Butler was in daily intercourse. As to the bond issues, Senator Chandler declared that the President and the Secretary of the Treasury were men of sterling personal integrity, standing as the representatives of the credit of the government. No, one charges misappropriation or embezzlement of the funds which had been raised by the sale of bonds.

"I am thankful that two-thirds of the Senators on this side of the chamber," said Senator Chandler, "will vote against this bill, and I ask Senators who participated in the election of President Cleveland and are of the party of John G. Carlisie, to join with us in at least one patriotic vote to protect our honor and credit;"

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota rose to challenge a published statement

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota rose to challenge a published statement that, although an advocate of free-silver coinage, he had agreed to support "McKinley and sound money" in order to become a national delegate to the convention. Senator Pettigrew declared that the report was false. The South Dakota convention had referred the financial question to the national convention, and no issue or vote was taken on silver. Senator Pettigrew declared that there was no office which would lead him to sacrifice his convictions on finance.

that there was no office which would lead him to sacrifice his convictions on finance.

Senator Teller pointed out that the pending bill had no connection with the free coinage of silver. He denied also the right of Senator Chandler to speak for the Republican party in favoring a continuance of bond issues. The American people, he believed, were not in favor of increasing the public debt in time of peace.

Senator Teller reterred contemptations to those "self-satisfied Pharisees" who declaimed that they were the only ones willing to protect the honor and credit of the country.

The Senator declared that the silver question, for which death and burial has been predicted, was a most lively corpse. State after State had declared in convention for silver. The great Democratic party was ready to inscribe on its banner "Free Silver Coinage,"

"What the Republican party will do at St. Louis I do not know," sald Senator Teller, "but I believe I know enough of the sentiments of the West and of the plain people of the country that the party which inscribes on its banner The Gold Standard' is doomed to defeat."

"Before I would vote for a bill carrying such dishonor," exclaimed Senator Burrows, "I had rather a thousand times that the country had gone down in the awful storm of war. I will never raise my hand to remove the last prop that sustains the credit of my country," (Applause.)

Senator Palmer of Illinois urged that the bill sought to achieve free silver at the cost of the credit of the country. It was 6:30 o'clock when the voting began. The presiding officer, Senator Paulkner, directed the reading of the amendment of Senator Aldrich, introduced early in the day, allowing bond issues in an emergency to sustain public credit.

TTEMS IN DISPUTE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The conferees on the General Deficiency Appropriation Bill were able to report an agreement early today on all but 26 of 233 amendments made by the Senate. Among the amendments on which an agreement was announced are those appropriating $1.542.979 to pay the claims of the Southern Pacific Railway Company; $1.317.082 to pay judgments of the Court of Claims; $45.000 for construction of sampling works for assaying imported silver-lead ores, and $176.124 to pay clerks of members of the House.

The principal items still in dispute are: Increasing the appropriation for customs service from $500,000 to $1,200.000; appropriating $150.000 for the payment of injuries on account of the Ford Theater disaster; increasing from $50.120 to $104.851 the allowance on account of contests in the House of Representatives.

GENERAL DEFICIENCY BILL. the reorganisation of the militia. The bill is a recodification of the laws relating to the militia, with such changes

Hurst of Baltimore, John Gill and E. Warfield, Baltimore, and J. F. Pierce of Kent county.

Senator Gorman will not go to Chicago as a delegate, nor will he seek reelection as a member of the National Committee. The State platform will contain a gold-standard plank and will indorse the Cleveland administration. The delegates will probably go to Chicago uninstructed.

NICARAGUA CANAL REPORT. size,000 a year. The report was adopted by 126 to 29.

The report of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, recommending the passage of the bill over the President's veto, was made by Chairman Hooker and read. The reading was followed by applause, most of it on the Republican side of the house. Hooker moved the passage of the bill, saying the committee was of the opinion that the President's message covered every possible objection to the bill and that the report answered all objections.

"Many members have asked for time to debate this matter," he said, "and to yield to their requests would take much time. Without expressing any opinion on the question as to whether there should be a debate, and to test the opinion of the House on the question as to whether debate is necessary, I will demand the previous question."

Instantly Mr. Dockery of Missourt was demanding recognition. The I will demand the previous question."

Speaker told him debate was not in order. The members were shouting "Vote, vote." Mr. Dockery shouted:

NICARAGUA CANAL REPORT.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Senate Committee on Nicaragua Canal held a meeting today and authorized the chairman, Senator Morgan, to report favorably a bill similar to that which has been reported in the House for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The committee also signified its concurrence in a report on the bill which Senator Morgan had prepared and which he read to the committee.

The report was afterward presented to the Senate. It is a voluminous document, and discusses in a comprehensive manner all the questions is NICARAGUA CANAL REPORT. question by 178 to 60, by a rising vote.
Only 46 rose to sustain the request for the yeas and nays.

"Under the rules a vote on the passage of the bill must be taken by yeas and nays," the Speaker announced.

"Is there no rule by which we can have debates?" asked Mr. Dockery.

"Not if the House orders to the contrary," said the Speaker, "and the House has so ordered."

"To stifle debate," responded Mr.
Dockery.

The bill was passed by a vote of 226 to the Senate. It is a voluminous document, and discusses in a comprehensive manner all the questions involved in the construction of the proposed waterway. Referring to the report of the Nicaragua canal commission, the committee says: "There is, in fact, no real engineering difficulty in any part of this projected work; To say that this work is practicable at a cost that bears a reasonble comparison with its importance and value, and to add that it should not be built until every feature of the work is fixed by tests that are impossible to be applied in advance of construction, it is out of the range of all experience and can only be a pretext for refusing to engage in it."

The committee expresses the opinion, based upon the work performed, that the canal can be constructed for less than Monocal's estimate, which is $73,176,176, but they estimate that at a cost of $150,000,000 the highest figure named, it would pay an average of $1,662,500 per year for the first ten years after its completion.

THOSE BATTLESHIPS. House has so ordered."

"To stifie debate," responded Mr. Dockery.

The bill was passed by a vote of 220 to 60. Among the announcements made for absent members was one that Mr. Crisp of Georgia would have voted to pass the bill over the veto if present. An effort was made by Mr. Hooker to secure the printing of 10,000 copies of the River and Harbor veto, and the committee's reply, but it was blocked by an objection.

The Democrats who voted to pass the bill over the veto were:

Messrs. Bankhead of Alabama, Berry of Kentucky, Buck of Louisiana, Catchings of Mississippl, Clarke of Alabama, Cooper of Texas, Culberson of Texas, Cummings of New York, Denny of Mississippl, Densmore of Arkansas, Ellett of Virginia, Elihott of South Carolina, Fitzgerald of Massachusetts, Kendall of Kentucky, Kyle of Mississippl, Latimer of South Carolina, Lester of Georgia, Little of Arkansas, McCulloch of Arkansas, McMillin of Tennessee, McRae of Arkansas, Meyer of Louisiana, Owens of Kentucky, Price of Louisiana, Taibert of South Carolina, Terry of Arkansas, Turner of Georgia, Tyler of Virginia, Underwood of Alabama, Washington of Tennessee, Williams of Mississippl, Wilson of South Carolina—39.

They prepared the resolutions, which will not denounce President Cleveland, Secretary Carligle, Senator Lindsay and others by name, nor the Louisville, Lexington and other "gold-standard" papers, but they will denounce the financial policy of the administration in such severe terms as indirectly to condemn the President and Secretary of the Treasury.

President and Secretary of the Treasury.

Outside of the financial plank, which is a most emphatic declaration for free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 18 to 1, without regard to the action of any foreign nation, the platform on national issues as agreed upon by the sliver conference for presentation to the committee and convention tomorrow does not differ from the one on which Hardin ran for Governor last year.

The platform does differ from former ones, however, in its severe denunciation of "so-called sound money" Democrats who did not, at the last session of the Legislature, support the regular nominee of the Democrats for United States Senator. This resolution specially declares Blackburn still the Democratic nominee of Kentucky for Senator, notwithstanding his failure of election, due to the un-Democratic course of certain members of the Legislature.

When the routine business of the convention had been transacted, and Gov. Cleaves had addressed the convention on State and national issues, Judge-Savage of Auburn, presented the name of Hon. Llewellyn Powers of Houiton, as a candidate for governor. The nomination was made by acclamation. The financial plank is as follows: "We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver except by international agreement, and until such agreement can be obtained, we believe the present gold standard should be maintained."

A vigorous foreign policy is urged, also restriction of immigration and just administration of pension laws. The platform closes with a declaration of loyalty to Thomas B. Reed, thanks to the Maine members in Congress and a pledge of hearty support to the candidate for governor.

After the passage of these resolutions the convention adjourned.

"Col. Molina left his headquarters a few days after the attack on Beñora Martinez, and marched his troops south to effect a function with Gen. Meiguiso's troop. The Spaniards were attacked and forced to retreat by the Cuban band. On making a detour to avoid the Cubans, Col. Molina's command occupied a shanty occupied by an old farmer, his two sons, and a daughter-in-law and three grand-children. An eye witness of the tragedy says:

"'At the approach of the soldiers the men took refuge in the jungle, carrying off that two eldest children, and only the daughter with her baby remained in charge of the house. She hoped her sex and the sight of the child, but 6 monts old, would protect them from harm and spare the house.

"Col. Molina halted his command by the roadside and, dismounting, walked into the house. "Where are the men?" he demanded. "I have been fired upon by your people at Arroyito, and I intend to sent a detachment to surprise them at camp tonight, so I need guides. Where are the reascals that live here?"

Where are the rascals that live here?"

"They are outside," was the trembling response. "Are they? Well, you will guide a squad of my men to their hiding place and bring them back. No trifling." "I have not the least idea where they can be," sobbed the woman. "Haven't you? Very well. Ho! there. A corporal and five men."

"As the platoon entered the cabin Molina pointed to her and said: "Pull out that rebel hag and shoot her." The mother and child were dragged some twenty-five feet from the house and the squad moved away a few paces. "Will you speak now?" the colonel demanded. "For God's make, I don't know," orded the woman, who was nearly dead with terror. With a convulsive movement the woman fried to shield the child with her own body, but the merciless bullets did their work."

LANDA'S BUTCHERY.

LANDA'S BUTCHERY. NEW YORK, June 2.—The following atter was received at the headquarters

"In the San Pedro district, township of Cano, Havana province, the column commanded by Col. Landa, and the Principe lancers have killed several peasants who were non-combatants, among them Murius Negrin, whose head was horribly mutilated with knives. They also killed a poor colored boy about 12 years old, also a man named Martines, father of ten children, who was cut down for the crime of having a son in the insurgent ranks. The troops would not even allow the burial of the bodies.

"A poor and feeble cotogenarian was alashed with a machete and died from the wounds he received. The facts can only be whispered, and we fear to retain them in our memory. I get these facts from relatives of the victims. These murderers are proud of their atroctities. They say the non-combatants are as much rebeis as those they meet against them in the field, and they aid the insurgents and all spies. They intend to get rid of them.

"In the Santa Barbara district, Benight:
"In the San Pedro district, township

jucal township. Havana province, the same column and the same Principe lancers murdered twenty-eight noncombatants without sparing women, old men or children. The only one of the murdered children whose name I obtained was ini Afonso.

"The man who fired at Maximo Gomes, when the rebel general-in-chief was in the city of Bejucal, was Ramon Caudradi, a policeman. It was he who acted as messenger for Gomes in demanding the surrender of the fort at the railroad station here. The Spanish troops insisted that he should be killed for his lack of patriotism, but they hold now that he has redeemed himself by his attempt on Gomes's life. It is a common thing for persons who are passing along a road to be fired at by soldiers. When inoffensive men are killed in this way, the official reports invariably give details of desperate encounters with the rebels.

CAPT. AHRENBURG. He is Being Pursued as the Missing

Pastor Hermans.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

SALT LAKE (Utah.) June 2.—A special to the Tribune from Market Lake, Idaho, says that Capt. Donovan of Salt Lake and a detective, accompanied by Drummer Nolan, left that place yesterday morning on the stages on the trail of Hermans, who went through Market Lake May 28 on his way to Jackson's Hole, Wyo., and who rode on the stage with Nolan from that place to St. Anthony. A long, fruitless chase might have been saved the gentlemen had they communicated with anybody at Market Lake, as the man they are going after, while he resembles the picture of Hermans, is not that person at all, but Capt. D. T. Ahrenburg of No. 743 Pine street, San Francisco, who returned to the Hole country.

Capt. Ahrenburg is of Swedish descent and speaks with a strong accent. He made arrangements with a livery man at Market Lake to take a friend of his and his wife to the Hole when they arrived, which will be in a few days. The supposition is that the drummer got rattled when he thought had a good thing, and has allowed his zeal to run away with him, and take Capt. Donovan along.

TRACING THE BAGGAGE.

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—Chef Irwin tiday received the following tale.

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—Chief Ir-win today received the following telegram from Arthur Prast, Chief of Police at Sait Lake, Utah:

"Hermans's baggage, No. 590 and No. 10, arrived in Kansas City May 6. Which way did it go from there?"
Detectives Hayes and Haipin made a search of the baggage-rooms at the Union Depot, and reported that Chief Prast would have to trace the fugitive's baggage from Sait Lake, first ascertaining over which road it had reached Kansas City. They reported that so far they were unable to discover any track of the lost baggage in this city. It is believed that Hermans's baggage went west from Kansas City, its destination being somewhere in the far Northwest.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRISS WIRE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—In regard to the statement telegraphed from Washington to the effect that defects had been discovered in the construction of the new battleship Oregon, Irving M. Scott, president of the Union Iron Works, says:

"Upon the return of the Oregon from her famous trial trip in the Santa Barbara channel, we were informed that the superintendent of the shipyard and two of his sub-foremen had made a mistake in the dimensions of some of the plates in the protection deck over the coal-bunkers and, in order to cover it up, had substituted thinner plates of sufficient width, the requisite thickness thus being made up. Instead of three plates of the thickness required by the specifications there were four, which, though thinner, were in the aggregate the same.

"Upon being summoned before the trial board, the three men responsible frankly admitted the truth of the report, and testified that they had made the substitution of thinner plates upon their own responsibility and without informing either the Union Iron Works or Mr. Stahl, the naval constructor, who superintended the work.

"As neither the strength or efficiency of the ship was affected—the four plates they inserted being just as thick as the three required by the specifications—they had seen no harm in their action, and hoped by this means to cover up a mistake they had made in the dimensions of the original plates. When questioned further, they stated that they had substituted four plates on each side over the coal bunkers, and described the location in detail.

"As soon as we could locate the deficient plates and their number, we furnished the trial board with a drawing showing what and where they were and ordered them removed and others according to specifications put in their places. Our offer to do this at our own expense was accepted by the government, and the plates which were ordered from Pittsburgh, left there yesterday and will be in place by the end of next week."

leventh Annual Convention of Their Protective Association.

TERRE HAUTE (Ind.,) June 2.—The TERRE HAUTE (Ind..) June 2.—The Travelers' Protective Association of America assembled here in seventh annual convention today. The address of John A. Lee, national president, shows that the organization has grown in numbers and extent of territory, now comprising thirty-two State divisions, numbers and extent of territory, now comprising thirty-two State divisions, 110 municipal organizations, and 11,000 active members. The indemnities paid during the year for accidental injury and death amount to $5.41 per capita, while collections for the indemnity fund amount to $5.23 per capita, showing a safe margain. In concluding, Lee said: "Our members assembled here today have passed through a year of commercial trials and bitter conditions. We have been compelled to sell twice the quantity of goods we sold ten or even five years ago, in order to make the usual aggregate sales of dollars and cents, owing to the enormous declines in values of nearly all lines of goods. We have found employment hard to secure and harder to retain than heretofore, and my people are finding their burdens growing almost intolerable. "Whether God in His mercy and wisdom may choose a pillar of silvery clouds by day or a pillar of golden fire by night with which to guide His people out of this bondage, or happily employ a combination of both- we will be content if relief comes, provided it comes quickly."

Fears to Offend Russia and His Abdication is Hinted at—Critical Conditions in the Island—That Treaty that Was not Observed.

GIT TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)

LONDON, June 2.—(Special Dispatch.) The Vienna correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that he learns from Athens that the Greek national government and Crown Prince all favor the annexation of the Island of Crete by Greece. Such a favorable chance as the present one is not likely to recur. The King, however, would do anything rather than offend Russia. but nevertheless he cannot long resist the nation. His abdication is hinted at. The Prime Minister and the Minister of Foreign Affairs were closeted with the King for hours today. There are many indications that the recent inac-tion of the government will be aban-doned.

The Daily News has also a dispatch direct from Athens, which gives fur-ther details of the critical situation in Crete. It says the Turks are pillaging

In ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRED

NEW YORK, June 2—In the Supreme Court today a jury was 'mpaneled for the trial of the suit of David Belasco against N. K. Falr' anak of Chicago. Belasco claims that 'he westera man owes him $65,000 for his services and expenses in training Mrs. Lesille Carter for the stage, which, he alleges, occupied his entire 'time from July, 1839, to November, $790, Counsel for Belasco. in stating his case, said that Fairbank has $27 sed to pay the plaintiff whatever was reasonable, and counsel held that the staim for $65,000, which included sum 'ry items of traveling and other expenses incident to the business between Fairbank, Belasco and Mrs. Carter, is within that designation. Mrs. Cart r was trained by Belasco for twenty -two parts in plays by Shakespear, and Messrs.
Wood, Sardou and Gill jert.
Fairbank in his any wer alleges that in the spring of 1891 Belasco released and discharged nim from all claims arising out of the first professional tour of Mrs. Carter. The defendant also alleges that between J uly 1, 1839, and November 1, 1890, he los aned Belasco $10,000, which the latter professional tour of Mrs. Carter. The made further loans to the plaint? A aggregating $20,880, none of 'which has been returned, and w'.lich, with the $10,000 first specified, he entered a counterclaim, asking that Belasco's be dis missed, and the the be given judgment against Belasc o for $30,860, with interest and costs.

A motion to amend Fairbank's counterclaim, so's to make the amount advanced $51,000, which the millionaire discovered he had advanced Belasco for Mrs. Carter'y training, was made later.
The motion was granted and an exception : aken. The trial of the case will be pre ceeded with tomorrow.

(London, Globe) Russian soldiers in crete. It says the Turks are pillaging and burning the villages in the vicinity of Retimo. It is stated that seventy-five Turkish soldiers were killed and forty wounded in the recent fighting at Tsavaro and Vamos.

The Herald's commentary says Crete has long been a thorn in the side of the Turkish government. Its inhabitants are of a bold and independent temper and they chafe against the misrule of their Ottoman lords. The great rebeland they chair against the mustule or their Ottoman lords. The great rebel-ilon of 1886-69 swept away much of the oppression under which they had pre-viously groaned, but the improvement becured, though great, was not thorough, and there is always more or les trouble brewing in the army. Like Armenia, Crete is mentioned and provided for in the treaty of Berlia, but the undertakings given by the Sublime Porte proved as little fruitful in one case as they did in others.

The Cretans complained in particular of the Porte's interference with the Cretan Assembly, at the application of the insular revenues to gendarmerie and at the undue favor shown to Mos-lem inhabitants, who form one fifth of the whole population. The discontent became so acute in 1889 that a rebellion of serious dimensions broke out. When it had been put down, a firman was issued by the Sultan which modified the Constitution and curtailed the priv-ileges of the Cretans. This did not tend to improve matters, and ever since then there has always been uneasine in the island.

THE BATTLE AT VAMOS ATHENS, June 2.—The Turks lost seventy-five men and the Christians forty during the operations for reliev-ing Vamos in the Island of Cretz. The manders of several warships warned the Turkish authorities that, unless they maintain order in the isl-and, they must expect energetic measures to be taken.

(London, Globe:) Russian soldiers in Siberia and not only encouraged to exercise their martial ardor on big game, but are autually led out in squads to take part in the hunt. On a recent occasion, a local police inspector joined in the hunt, and got two of the soldier-beaters to act as his bodyguard. When the bear came merely romping toward beaters to act as his bodyguard. When the bear came merely romping toward him over the saow, the inspector got flurried, missed with both barrels, flung down his gun and buried his head in the snow, seeking to burrow out of sight. The bear came on in a great fury. Two of the soldiers waited till he came to chose quarters, and turned him back with a volley. They then charged with fixed bayonets and finished him cff in true military style. They have been rewarded for their presence of mind in saving the life of the guardian of the peace by having their photographs hung in their headquarters and being each presented with one roubly.

Took Him for a Guide.

(New York Tribune:) The Washington Times relates an amusing incident of "Joe" 'Manley's recent visit to Washington. One day he was piloting some friends through the Capitol. He reached the room of the Vice-President, where young Mr. Stevenson was occupied with some official papers, and that gentleman was visibly disturbed, so much so that he called Mr. Manley to one side and informed him that "you guides abould rap on the door before entering this room." Mr. Stevenson was enlightened by a sudden explanation, and he had the grace to withdraw his objections, but the face of the Mange boss wore a troubled expression for several hours.

RIPANS TABULES

"Out of sympathy for other poor mortals who may be suffering," says Miss Mary Foeman of Saranac, Clinton county, N. Y., October 21, 1895, "I wish to give my experience with the Ripans Tabules. Having suffered severely for a long time from liver complaint, indigestion, constipation, sick headache and distress in the stomach, and finding no relief in my efforts to regain my health, I was induced by a friend to try Ripans Tabules. Under this cure I improved verymuch and in three weeks was cured. I feel like a new person and my terrible sufferings have all gone. Life is a comfort compared to the misery it used to be. I can now go to bed and have a good night's rest, and can eat heartily without any distress. I am willing this should be published for others' good, and a thousand thanks for your treatment. I inclose my photo." One Gives Relief.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists or by mail if the price (50c a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

Eczema

Mr. E. D. Jenkins, of Lithonia, Ga., says that his daughter, Ida, inherited a severe case of Bozema, which the usual mercury and potash remedies failed to relieve. Year by year she was treated with various medicines, external applications and internal remedies, without result. Her sufferings were intense, and her condition grew steadily worse. All the so-called blood remedies did not seem to reach the disease at all until S. S.S. was given, when an improvement was at once noticed.

an improvement was at once noticed. The medicine was continued with favorable results, and now she is cured sound and well, her akin is perfectly clear and pure and she has been saved from what threatened to blight her life forever.

S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) cures Eczema, Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, or any other blood trouble. It is a real blocd remedy and always cures even after all else fails.

CHILEAN CONGRESS.

President Montt's Message on Inter nal Affairs Makes an Impression. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

NEW YORK, June 2.—A dispatch to the Herald from Valparaiso, Chile, says the ordinary session of the Chilean Congress began Monday. The two candidates for President were absent, in order to avoid unpleasant scenes. President Montt's message was largely devoted to international questions. Relative to the Argentine question, he said the protocol agreed upon left the matter in such shape that it would be impossible to repeat present danger of hostilities, and would establish a lasting friendship between the two countries.

hostilities, and would establish a lasting friendship between the two countries.

Under the treaty of friendship and commerce with Bolivia. the message says, the relations with that country will be those of mutual friendship and comity. Relative to Peru, President Montt said he regretted that, despite earnest efforts, he had been unable to settle the question of dominion over the provinces of Tacna and Arica, but he hoped the efforts would yet be crowned with good results. The government was devoting itself, the message said, to the extent of its commerce with southern nations. It had under contemplation a treaty with Brazil. Claims were being satisfactorily settled, including American claims amounting to $28,500,000. The cause of public instruction had been steadily promoted, and there were now more than two thousand public schools in operation.

The conversion of the currency of the country to a solid hasis, the President said, was assured, and, despite the inconvenience of a sudden change from paper to a metallic system and extra expenses, the fear of international troubles had been outgrown. The message made a good impression in Chile. The President has restored order and pacified the country in less time than was expected, owing to the deep internal dissensions growing out of the revolution of 1891.

Both Sides Claim Victory in the Democratic Primaries.

List of Delegates Elected from the City Precincts.

Centests in the Various Wards.
Wagon Loads of Voters Marched from Precinct to Precinct and Voted Like Cattle.

Feeling ran rather high, at the Democratic primaries, in some of the city precincts last evening, and the rivalry between the representatives of various factions of "the great un-washed" was so bitter as to occa-sion in one instance, at least, a personal encounter between two members of the "silk stocking push."

In many of the precincts, two tickets were voted, the issue in most of these cases being railroad versus anti-railroad, with Gaffey-Patton and Stephens road, with Gaffey-Patton and Stephens representing the latter and Last-Ramish and Marsh the former. The gang claims to have secured a majority of the delegates elected in the city, but is not so confident as to the rural people. This claim of a victory in the city is not conceded by the "antigang" element, which faction alleges that about "half and half" is nearer the result of yesterday evening's primaries.

An unusually large vote was polled that about "half and half" is nearer the result of yesterday evening's primaries.

An unusually large vote was polled in many of the precincts, while the polling places upon the outskirts of the city had but very few ballots to take care of. There was an abundance of illegal voting permitted, and tally-hos, filled with men, were rushed from one polling place to another, and wherever it was found necessary, were voted to the limit. At the Catalina hotel on South Broadway, a load of these people came up, and the boss of the outfit began preparations to vote them. The election board objected to the proceeding, and called for police assistance, when the "boss," frightened at the prospect of detention, called off his men, and proceeded to other pastures. There was a lively contest in the Twenty-eighth precinct, occasioned for the most part by the enemies of Gen. C. F. A. Last, who opposed him with vigor and final success. He was beaten by two votes.

In the Second, Seventh, and Eighth wards, the railroad gang controlled the polls and elected its ticket in each precinct. The other wards were divided in sentiment. Returns were received by Secretary Herzog, until 12 o'clock, midnight. The delegates cleeted to the county convention from the precincts noted below, being as follows:

FRAGMENTS OF THE FRAY.

FRAGMENTS OF THE FRAY.

There was a keg of beer on tap at the stable in which the unterrified of the Forty-second precinct held their primary and it was visited with exceeding frequency.

There was much comment upon the dimness of the light in the various polling places. A dirry little kerosene lamp, a lantern or a candle stuck in a bottle was thought to make quike sufficient illumination.

One staunch supporter of the anti-Federal brigade, a grading contractor, loaded a dozen or so of his men into a bus, and had them driven from precinct to precinct. The vehicle halted a block away from each polling place, a railroad henchman distributed tickets and assigned each man a name and address, and the sheep marched up and voted unblushingly. Then they drove on to the next precinct, varying the monotony by frequent visits to saloons.

The election officers in the Thrty-fifth, precinct were anti-gang men. Each was, armed with a big bunch of his own neatly-written tickets, ready for distribution to the Democrats. When a man pasented a white ticket his qualifications were not so closely examined into when he tried to cast a red ballot. So "de gang" went to work and prepared a lot of written tickets which in exterior appearance closely resembled the reform ticket. But the ruse failed to defeat the federal brigade.

At the polling place of the Thirty-second precinct, at No. 507 West Sixth street, cheating was rampant. The workers exchanged oots and hats, tied their neckties in a new way and returned to the polls, in most instances depositing their votes unchallenged.

One clumsy fellow of the Thirty-fifth, instructed by the workers what name and address to give, forgot and gave a number lying outside of the precinct.

During the evening a lively scrimmage occurred at the Twenty-fifth, in which Maj. W. R. Burke and W. S. Creighton and Telfair Creighton were badly mixed up. Blows were exchanged on both sides, and there was an exciting set-to.

MANY MURDERS. Italy Has Four Thousand in a Single Year.

A correspondent writing from Rome gives an account of an address by Prof. Baron Garofalo. delivered recently before a popular audience in that city. Garofalo, who is recognized as one of the leading phrenologists of Italy, gave some statistics regarding the annual loss of life by homicide in Italy which were very startling, says the New York Recorder. The total number of murders in Italy during the last year was about four thousand, which is equivalent, said the speaker, to a homicide every two hours. This is a very much greater mortality rate than exists in other civilized countries, the ratio in France being one-tenth of that in Italy and the ratio in Denmark bemark being one-thirty-fifth of that in Italy.

This tendency to homicide is due. Year.

in Italy and the ratio in Denmark bemark being one-thirty-fifth of that in Italy.

This tendency to homicide is, due, according to Baron Garofalo, first to the existence of the vendetta, which has lingered longer in Italy than in any other country; then to the practice of dueling, and perhaps more than all, to certain defects in education and to racial tendencies. Garofalo thinks that the remedy for this consists in improving the system of administration of justice, in enforcing capital punishment, in recasting the methods of education throughout Italy largely on the lines advocated by Lombroso and his school, and finally, in the ennobling of the moral and religious sentiments of the people. This, according to Garofalo, is to be done not so much by moral as by religious inculcation.

To the religious instruction given in Great Britain and in the United States he attributes the fact that these countries have in forty years diminished by one-half their annual proportion of delinquents and mendicants, while in Italy there has been an increase in both delinquency and mendicancy since 1862. Baron Garofalo's strong advocacy of the value of religious training, coming, as it does, from the school of Lombroso, is a factor which religious teachers and professors in this country will rejoice over with great heartiness.

One of the fakirs in question had been interred for six weeks and the other for ten days. The fakirs, who are histerical to the highest degree, possess the faculty of producing artificially a condition identical with cataleptic ecstacy. They use all possible means, such as mortification of the body by a special diet, the internal employment of different plants known only to themselves and the adoption of a peculiar posture of the body for many hours. When they have practiced this for a sufficient length of time, they assume one of the postures prescribed by the sacred books of the Indians and fall into a hypnotic condition induced by looking fixedly at the end of the nose. Hasheesh is still made use of by them to diminish the respiratory force, for this hypnotic, when associated with other plants and employed in a peculiar manner, makes up for the loss of air and nourishment. The fakirs have hallucinations when hypnosis begins; they hear certain sounds, see angels and their faces express a feeling of happiness. But little by little consciousness disappears and the body acquires a peculiar rigidity. This is evidently, says the writer, a matter of self-hypnotism in hysterical persons who are sufficiently predisposed to it. This lethargy is looked upon by people as death, and when the subjects are aroused it is God who has brought them to life. In Greek or Roman literature, says the writer, we may find accounts of persons who have died and returned again to earth.

There is nothing astonishing in these facts, for Bouchut, in his treatise on the signs which enable us to recognize real death, reported the case of a woman who had been disinterred in order that a friend might look at her again. She was found to be alive, and lived for many years afterward. Also, in the department of the north, there was a case reported of a girl who had remained in a lethargic condition for several years. She had fallen into this condition on hearing that she was to be arrested for having V. L. Price. Twenty-third precinct - C. D. Wil-

FOR PRESIDENT OF MEXICO.

An interesting piece of news comes from Mexico about the Presidential election which is to be held there this year to the effect that President Diaz, who has held office so long, is to have a competitor in the election, and that Gen. Escobedo, who was conspicuous in breaking up the empire of the late Maximilian, is the man. It has seemed useless in former national elections in Mexico to nominate any candidate against Diaz, who has successful in four quadrennial elections, three of them successive, and who was at one time provisional president. He has been the favorite of a vast majority of the Mexican people, and no rival has been able to break popularity. Sixteen years ago Gonzalez supplanted him for a term, but at the next election Diaz

It is an interesting fact that, while Diaz is a representative of the Liberal party, Escobedo also belongs to that party. If the latter gets a nomina tion, it will be from a branch of the party of which the former is an adwho does not bear the name of Liberal to run for the office of President of Mexico. Any other party is sure to be stigmatized as "clerical," and, though Mexico is a very religious country, it rejects clericalism

The fourth term of President Diaz will come to an end in November; the choice of electors will take place in June. As in the United States the tickets for electors in Mexico is sub mitted to the popular vote in a general election. The Mexican people are nearly as "deep in politics" as are their neighbors to the north.

It will be upon their services to their country that both Diaz and Escobedo will stand in the forthcoming The record of Diaz is long and meritorious. Under his administration peace has been maintained in Mexico, which has also enjoyed unusual prosperity, and has been enriched with many important public We presume that for Escobedo's partisans the cry will be "Queretaro!" It was Escobedo who leged and captured that famous stronghold when the Emperor Maximilian had taken refuge in it twentynine years ago this month. It was h who arrested the Emperor, along with ademned by court martial and shot. His partisans claim that it was he saved Mexico from imperialism, and that he deserves special credit greatest sum collected from that for the success of the republic. It is upon this record, doubtless, that Escobedo will seek to win the Presidency. In the career of Diaz there has en no single incident so notable or dramatic as that which occurred upon lofty plateau that is the seat of the fine city of Queretaro; but it must be said for Diaz that he also bore an excellent name during the war against imperialism. Both men have a war record, but the chief claim of Diaz to other term of the Presidency will be based upon the pacific and progressive character of his administra-tion. He has been a distinguished, capable, and valuable public officer.

Henry Clews, the Wall-street banker, n his financial circular for May 29, comments as follows on the prospect and the prevailing aspects of the silver

It will mean an end to interferences in the Cuban and Venezuelan questions to disturbing silver schemes; and to virtual repudia-tory resolutions for preventing the government from protecting its notes by borrowing gold and thereby precipitat-ing the silver basis. At the same time, it will require the most jealous over-sight over the caliber of the men who sight over the caliber of the men who are to be put in nomination for Congressional functions. At the next session, some of the most important problems will be pressed for solution that have ever occupied the attention of Congress; and no effort should be spared to secure the nomination of candidates who not only have a company of the conditions of the petent understanding of financial questions but also can be trusted for the maintenance of sound-money prin-ciples. The undeniable revival of silverism, as shown by the political symptoms of the hour, has naturally increased the solicitude of reflective men about the future of monetary readjustment. It is becoming mor evident that the settlement of this en-tire problem is not likely to be effected by any one bill or at any one session of Congress. The large general ques-tion involves subsidiary parts, upon each one of which there are likely to be wide differences of opinion, and which also will require separate treat-

ST. LOUIS CYCLONE RELIEF WORK DONE UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Wealthy Iron Miner Thought to Have Been a Victim of the Dis-aster—Helen Gould's Contribu-tion Dwindles a Few Thousands. Estimates of the Losses.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—The work of relief and restoration goes on today in the midst of rain. Contributions of money, clothing, provisions and other necessities are coming in liberally, and all destitute are being cared for. The losses caused indirectly by the tornado are just beginning to reveal themselves, and will be nearly as cruel as the immediate effects. Because the tornado ruined many mills and factories a large number of men will be out of employment for weeks and morths. How many men have been deprived of an opportunity to earn a livelihood cannot be stated with accuracy, but it certainly runs into hundreds in excess of the number employed to repair the damage. ST. LOUIS, June 2.-The work of re

INSURANCE ON SHIPPING. ST. LOUIS, June 2.—The underwrit-ers who carried insurance on the ves-sels lost in the storm met here today. One of them stated the damage to ship-ping interests has been greatly under-estimated. He says the total loss will reach over $500,000, and gave the fol-lowing partial list:

Anchor line boats, City of Cairo, $175,-000; Arkansas City, $175,000; City of Monroe, $800. Diamond Jo line boats, City of Pittsburgh, $3500; J. D. Odell. $12,000; Cargoes both vessels, $150,000;

$12,000; Cargoes both ves ther crafts, $20,000. Ten district assessors and fifteen clerks left the office of A. H. Freder clerks left the office of A. H. Frederick, president of the board of assessors, oday to make an official estimate of the losses. These experts will make a house-to-house canvass of the territory blasted by the tornade. Frederick expects to have a complete report a week hence. Nine burial permits were issued today for the interment of storm vactims. In East St. Louis dosens of persons are kept busy handing out groceries, shoes, dresses and other needed articles, but so generous have been the résponses in money and other gifts that for the time being there is no danger of want.

A WEALTHY MAN MISSING. ST. LOUIS, June 2.-It is feared that william Hartigan, a wealthy fron-miner of Birmingham, Ala, is beneath the debris of some wrecked building. Hartigan came to St. Louis two days before the tornado, to purchase farm machinery, and has not been seen since Wednesday.

GREAT DISTRESS. SENECA (Mo.,) June 2—Every day reveals great distress among the people here as the result of the cloudburst, here as the result of the cloudburst, and immediate aid is imperative. At first all were engaged in recovering lost bodies, but attention is now being given to clearing away the wreckage and establishing homes. This task becomes formidable, and is retarded by the entire demolition of many houses. Scores of residents have lost all their effects.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

WRAY (Colo.,) June 2.—News has reached here of a cyclone, the first ever known in this section, that blew down the postoffice, schoolhouse and s. number of residences and farm buildings at Lansing, Eastern Colorado, Saturday. FIELD OF POLITICS.

Possibilities of a Special Session of Congress.

New Jersey Hopes to Secure the Vice-Presidency.

What Will Transpire at the St. Louis Convention — Serious Di-lemma for the Democrats. Senator Gallinger.

(Washington Special to the Chicago Times-Hearld, May 27:) Men who have recently visited Gov. McKinley at Canton come to Washington and say there is no doubt there will be a special session of the next Congress called to meet shortly after inauguration. None of them pretends to say he has direct surfacely for the statement from Mai authority for the statement from Mad. McKinley himself, but all who talked with the Governor appear to have no other thought than that a call for an extra session will be one of the first official acts of the new President, This is one of the things the men of the business world count upon for the restoration of prosperity in the country. They say the financial question is now more invested than the tariff question. They say ine mancial question is now more important than the tariff ques-tion, for the simple reason that neither of the great parties has declared its policy concerning the currency. But just as soon as the declaration is made at St. Louis, and in Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance that the Republi-can party will resolutely maintain the gold standard until the commercial na tions of the world go to another sys-tem, the acute stage of the financial question will have been passed. That declaration will indicate the policy of the United States for years to come.

New Jersey's Ambitton. New Jersey's Ambition.
(New York Tribune). Garret A. Hobart, New Jersey's candidate for Vice-President, is making an aggressive fight for the second place on the ticket He told some friends facetiously the other day that it looked like "McKin-ley—and me." Mr. Hobart has said that he has not the slightest doubt that McKinley is to be nominated, and those who are looking after his canvass for second place assert that Mr. Hobart has always been most friendly toward the Ohlo man, and will doubtless get second place on the ticket.

What Will Happer

A Serious Dilemma

A Serious Dilemma.

(Chicago Tribune:) It is true beyond a doubt that if the Democratic party declares for free silver it will receive a crushing defeat at the polls. It is also true that if it does not declare for free silver it will be whipped out of its boots. This leaves no other course open to it than to split and nominate two candidates, in which case there will be not enough left of either to bury the other. From a Democratic point of view things look bilious.

A First Step. (Topeka State Journal:) The Iowa Democrats, at their State convention, took the first step in what may ultimately result in the elimination of the tariff question from politics. Their idea is embodied in the following plank in their platform: "Earnestly desiring to promote the best interests of the laboring people, we favor the appointment of a Cabinet official to be known as Secretary of Lebor, whose direct to the ing people, we favor the appointment of a Cabinet official to be known as Section of a Cabinet official to be known as Section of the control of the control

The Best Indicators.

(New York Mail and Express:) The popular demand for McKinley is the response of the homes, the shops, the stores, the mills, the banks and the pockets of the people to the disgraceful incompetency of the discredited Democracy. A reference to the savings banks as against McKinley is an exceedingly stupid proceeding. The savings banks are the institutions of the people. They are also the best indicators of the industrial and financial condition of the country. The total deposits in the savings banks of the country have fallen off between two and three hundred million dollars under Democratic rule. This means just so much money out of the savings of the laboring classes, as the price of Democratic medicators. The Best Indicators

Gallinger in Charge.

(Washington Special to Chicago Post, May 27:) Senator Quay is trying not to "leak" the details of his Canton interview with Maj. McKinley, but in today's issue of his personal organ, the Philadelphia Inquirer, mention is made that in the event of Maj. McKinley's nomination, "which now seems probable," Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, is likely to be invited to take charge of the campaign as chairman of the national committee. This is looked upon as a "tip" obtained by Senator Quay at Canton. Now that the news is out, Republican leaders are talking freely about it, and whether Gallinger is really the man or not, the view is freely expressed that a better selection could not be made. Gallinger in Charge.

Clarkson as He Was.

(From Washington Special to New York Tribune:) In a letter now repro-uced here, Mr. Clarkson, speaking of the conditions of the consistency. York Tribune:) In a letter now reproduced here, Mr. Clarkson, speaking of the country at the time of Maj. McKinley's second election as Governor of Ohio by a majority of $1,000, used the following language: "McKinley has wen so great a personal victory, and is so much the embodied form of all our politics, that he has won the nomination for 1896. If a convention were to be held today, he would be chosen unanimously. Whether he will stand the test of three years is not so certain, but I am inclined to think he will. In heart and brain he is another Blaine. The field is working up with McKinley, Harrison, Tom Reed and Bob Lincoln as the candidates. I think there is no doubt either of Harrison's desire or expectation, The men who held office under him nearly solid for him, and are active the theory that whoever is nomin is sure of election. He might be elec-but he's easily a million votes wee than his own ticket."

Heard the Patterings.
(New York Tribune:) "Well, there seems to be only one construction to place upon the matter," said G. W. Sinks, treasurer of the Republican State Committee of Ohlo, at the Fifth-avenue Hotel yesterday, referring to Senator Quay's visit to Maj. McKinley in Canton, "and that is that the Pennsylvania Senator has felt the pattering of the raindrops and decided that it was time to come in out of the wet. All this talk that Quay went out to ascertain McKinley's money views is nonsense. Quay knows, as every one knows, that McKinley is safe on the money question. It means that one more recruit has been added to the McKinley army."

Campaign of Slander Unsuccessful Campaign of Slander Unsuccessful.
(Detroit Journal:) But a campaign of slander never yet succeeded. The personalities of the campaign of 1884 contributed more to the election of Cleveland than we are willing to admit. Those same isms in 1896 leveled against McKinley will help to swell his majority by thousands. The masses do not welcome abuse of public men or candidates for office, but it is the only masterial the Democrats can use against McKinley, and it is regrettable that misguided Republicans of the East are supplying them with ammunition, even though it be damaged.

A Good Speech Necessary.

(New York Tribune:) When Mr. Depew was asked if he had finished writing the speech with which he intended to place Gov. Morton's name in nomination, he replied, jovially: "Well, no; but I judge that it will have to be a pretty good speech in order to carry the Governor through; won't it?" Mr. Depew's visit to Albany, so he says, is just a social call upon the Governor, but politicians say that Mr. Depew isn't nearly as enthusiastic over the candidacy of the Governor as he used to be, and that he may tell Mr. Morton some wholesome truths about his candidacy. Others say that Mr. Depew is going to see the Governor and talk to him about the convention, and get the latter's views on certain things.

Clarkson's Famous Circular. A Good Speech Necessary

Clarkson's Famous Circular.

Clarkson's Famous Circular.

(Washington Special to the Chicago Post, May 27:) Here are a few of the things James S. Clarkson wants to know about in his circular of inquiry as to the pedigree of delegates to the St. Louis convention:

1. Names. 2. Past affiliations. 3. Present alliance. 4. Elected for. 5. Personal efforts of. 6. Influenced by. 7. Postoffice address. 8. In convention of 9. Occupation. 10. Age. 11. Remarks.

The circular is labeled, "A Personal History of the Delegates." The question of the delegates' action in the forthcoming national convention does not seem to be of such vital importance to the propounder of these interrogatories as certain other personal characteristics. It would be well for the friends of Gov. McKinley to "look a little out" when matters of this character are being pushed by a prominent member of the national Committee. The particular circular that has found its way into the possession of McKinley's friends was addressed to "Charles H. Stone."

(From Washington Special to the Chi-cago Times-Herald, May 27:) The Pres-ident wants the battle of the standards ident wants the battle of the standards fought out this year, while some Demoratic leaders who are as sound as the President on the main question, believe a little temporising, a little conciliation, would be a good thing. Mr. Brice, for instance, holds views similar to those of Mr. Whitney, to the effect that the extreme phase of the sliver distemper will soon run out. Mr. Brice calls it the "sliver wash," or, again, says the sliver sentiment is a mere fog bank, which will be quickly dissipated by the sunlight of prosperity. These Democrats think it would be a good thing to hold the party together a few years longer, trusting to a return of better times for a future solution of the problem.

Democracy's Silver Wing. (New York Tribune:) The free-silver wing of the Democracy seems to have good reasons for the confidence they feel that they will be able to control the convention at Chicago. Perhaps they are not quite so confident now as they were a few days ago, but the figures, so far as it is possible to make them up, are clearly on their side. About 368 delegates have been elected, and of them 180 are for free silver and 172 for sound money, while 16 are rated as doubtful.

Waste of Energy. rancisco Bulletin:) Mr. Har-rity denies, with some heat, a purpose on the part of the gold Democrats to keep the silver Democrats out of the Chicago convention. It is kind, but in-asmuch as the silver Democrats have the majority of the delegates, Mr. Har-rity's heat is rather a waste of energy. Will the silver Democrats allow the gold Democrats to have seats?

Reed Will Refuse.

Reed Will Refuse.

(From Washington Special to Chicago Record, May 28:) Senator Lodge says that any attempt to nominate Mr. Reed for Vice-President will be met with a positive and authorized declaration that he will decline, even if the nomination is unanimous, and if the national convention takes the responsibility of putting him on the ticket after such an announcement, Mr. Reed will feel absolved from all delicacy in making a formal declination. His friends say that the Speaker of the House is a bigger man than the Vice-President; that he axercises more influence in public affairs, and that if Mr. Reed remains in public life he would prefer to retain his present position.

CAMPAIGN SHOTS.

CAMPAIGN SHOTS.

(Toledo Blade:) This is certainly the winter of Mr. Platt's discontent.

(Chicago Inter Ocean:) Quay shows his good sense by being as silent as McKinley.

(Kansas City Star:) Coxey has come out against Boles, but even that will scarcely pull the Iowa statesman through.

(Chicago Tribune:) When McKinley is nominated the New York Advertiser will either have to fly the coop or change its squawk.

(Chicago News:) A badge announcing the wearer a supporter of Senator Tillman for President has appeared. It is worn by Senator Tillman.

(Iowa State Register:) Senator

It is worn by Senator Tiliman.

(Iowa State Register:) Senator Teller says his following will not be satisfied with a straddle from either party. The silver mine owners are the tall that wants to wag the dog.

(Chicago Times-Herald:) Unless Mr. McKinley puts up a "keep off the grass" sign, his lawn at Canton is bound to become a great picnic resort this summer.

(Chicago Inter Ocean:) If Senator Brice was a praying man, he woulk now be upon his knees. Six more county and district conventions in Ohic instructed for a platform of silver, It to 1.

verdict of the physicians was that she was suffering from hemorrhags of the brain. In spite of all that could be done, the girl's condition became worse, and at 1 o'clock this morning her life was despaired of, and it was said that she would not live the hour out. Father Cota was sent for, and he administered absolution to the dying girl. About 2 o'clock the physician in charge of the case gave the girl two hypodermic injections of alcohol, and it allevisted her sufferings.

Up to the hour of going to press the girl was still in a comatose condition, and no hopes were entertained for her recovery.

A New-Found Raphael.

(Lady's Pictorial:) The Count de Bourbonne, leader of the party which believes that Louis XVII escaped from the Temple, has found a Raphael, one of the master's finest pictures, in the most curious manner. The Count has a castle in Bergundy, and one day wandering through a bric-a-brac shop in the village, he saw an unframed picture fastened to some boards. Examining it he realised that behind the inartistic painting there were some exquisite heads. These were so obscure that only the eyes of a comnoissuer could discover them. He bought the picture for 1.5, brought it to Paris, had it cleaned, and today M. de Bourbonne possesses a Madonna and child which was one of the most remarkable among the thirty Raphaels brought to France. In 1720 it disappeared from the collection of the Regent, and since then its whereabouts have not been known. Already the Count de Bourbonne has been offered 1.300.000 for the painting, but he will not sell it outside of France. The money received M. de Bourbonne intends to devote to the cause of the one he considers his true King, the descend-of Louis XVII, otherwise known as Naundork.

The condition of Spring street, nearly the entire distance from Temple to First street, is a menace to health, and if Los Angeles were not one of the healthlest cities in the world a typhoid fever epidemic or pestilence of some character would be imminent. Horses stand along the curb at the west side of Spring street throughout the day, and the accumulation of foulness and filth often approaches the point of flooding the street.

The increase in insanity is becoming ing. Scarcely a day passes by that there are not from one to two or three commitments from this county. The root of the growing evil should be sought out and remedies adopted looking to its suppression. Hard times are at the bottom of this mind disease in fewer cases than would be supposed; possible overwork, overplay and overemotion are the greatest enemies of the nervous system; the mind and brain work in closest union and sympathy. It is but a step from nervous physical disease to mental distraction.

The prosecution in the Mings brothers murder trial has vindicated itself. When a postponement was asked, the Deputy District Attorney declared that if reasonable time were allowed the people could produce witnesses who would give evidence of a very material character. One witness testified yes-erday that he overheard George Mings exclaim on the day after the murder, "They are onto everything; it is all up with us now!" The prosecution has further declared that it may be able to produce a witness who will swear George Mings said times were hard, but if he could get into Tom Hays's safe they would be better. The cause of the Mings brothers is growing serious.

Charges Against an Officer Dismissed-Report of Chief Glass.

George and Ben Mings Are Held for Murder-Nolan Gets Thirty Days. Two Commitments to High-land-Court Review.

The Police Commission held its usua session yesterday morning, dismissing the charges against Officer Blackburn, awarding a contract to make new uni-forms for the entire force, denying an application for a liquor license in "Little Paree" and receiving a report from Chief Glass, anent his recent visit East Chief Glass, anent his recent visit East. At the Courthouse yesterday, the Mings brothers were again held over to the Superior Court. Some new evidence of a startling character was developed. John Nolan, an old sailor, was found guilty of simple assault in having stabbed a man and was sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail. McCab, a craxy man, was taken from the train at the Arcade depot and locked up in the County Jail, to await examination. Chief Glass was present at the regular meeting of the Baord of Police Commissioners yesterday morning, and submitted the following letter, embodying a report of his recent visit to Atlanta, Ga.:

"Through the courtesy of your honorable board I was permitted to attend the annual convention of the Chiefs of Police of the United States and Canada, held at Atlanta, Ga., on and Canada, held at Atlanta, Ga., on "The session was a very interesting one, and I think productive of much good, the interchanging of ideas giving the members considerable up-to-date information in regard to criminal work. Besides the Chiefs of Poof our principal cities meeting e face to face, became better acquainted and will feel free in the future to give all information they may have in regard to criminals and police matters, to each other.

"Different perplexing questions, and the laws of the municipalities we have to deal with, were generally discussed by the members of the association, and many good points were brought out, all of which will, I think, be of great benefit to me and the city. We had some warm arguments over a report of a committee, appointed to investigate and report on the adoption of the Bertillion system and the establishing of a bureau of identification at Washington, D. C., and how to maintain the same. This committee reported in favor of having each prison and each city belonging to the association, without regard to the size of the cities, pay an equal portion of the expense of keeping up the said bureau. I moved to amend so that each city should pay pro rata to population, which amendment was carried. I was honored by an appointment as a member of a committee to report on the best police laws for large cities. This committee is an independent one, and I intend to give all the time and study nittee is an independent one, and I ntend to give all the time and study can to the various police systems of he Union, with the hope that in the be passed by the various State legislators and the police of cities elevated to such a high standing that an appointment as a patrolman will be sought after by men of education and business attainments. Thanking you for your kindness in enabling me to attend the convention, I remain, etc."

The charges preferred by Mrs. Michel against Officer Blackburn of unbecoming conduct were dismissed by the Commission upon the recommendation of the Chief.

by the Commission upon the recommendation of the Chief.

In his report upon the application of A. Demaret for a liquor license at No. 740 North Alameda street, Detective Moffatt grew somewhat facetious, as witness the following:

"In regard to the application of Alfred Demaret for license for a saloon at No. 740 North Alameda street, I now respectfully report as follows:

"The place for which this license is asked is the saloon about the center of the Shafer property on Alameda street, between Aliso and Marchessault streets. It is the place for which Theodore Bauer once had license, and the applicant is said to be the brother of the said Theodore.

"The block in which this saloon room is located has a frontage on Alameda.

applicant is said to be the brother of the said Theodore.

"The block in which this saloon room is located has a frontage on Alameda street between Marchessault and Aliso streets of 655 feet, and the block opposite has a frontage of 670.8 feet. Total frontage 1335.8 feet. The applicant has on his petition the consent of the owners of property having a frontage in the said blocks of 1193.3 feet, or more than 300 feet more than two-thirds of the whole, and to the best of my tuformation and belief there is no protest by residents or property-owners in said block to the granting of the license. Furthermore, the applicant has in his favor quite a remarkable petition, addressed to the Board of Police Commissioners and signed by about one hundred citizens of Los Angeles, many of them representative business men, asking that license be granted the applicant.

"In have no personal knowledge of the character of the applicant.

many of them representative business men, asking that license be granted the applicant.

"I have no personal knowledge of the character of the applicant, but on the one occasion that I met him he was duly sober. He states that he has in the past five years been in business in France, in Africa, and he is now in the United States, so with this experience he is probably a 'man of the world,' and can be relied upon to conduct a saloon at No. 740 North Alameda street without a shock to his sensibility. Beriously, judging from the eminent respectability of the gentlemen who wish to have him engage in business in this city, we have a right to believe that, witaout making much noise about it in the social world or elsewhere, there has come to Los Angeles from France, by way of Africa, more than an average man in the person of this applicant. Otherwise how could he in the short time that he has resided in Los Angeles have become known to so many merchants, manufacturers, law-pressed others, and have earned their good will as expressed in their petition in his behalf?"

The Commission denied the application for license from Mr. Demaret.

The application of John Brown for liquor license at No. 138 North Main street, where a license was recently refused by the board, was referred to the Chief.

Thomas Wolf and J. D. Chief.

rused by the board, was referred to the Chief.
Thomas Wolf and J. B. Calhoun were elected special officers by the board, and the application of H. A. Bates for appointment as policeman was filed.

The application of Henry J. A. Stuhr for a transfer of the saloon license at No. 162 North Los Angeles street from L. D. Rogers to himself was granted by the board, as was also the application of F. Kerkow for a liquor license at the corner of Jefferson street and Western avenue.

The invitation extended to the commission to participate in the coming Fourth of July parade and celebration, by the Fourth of July Executive Committee, was accepted by the board.

The contract to make new uniforms for the officers of the department was awarded to the Buffalo Woolen Mills Company, the price paid being $20.65 a suit for eighty-three suits, the work to be finished by July 3.

, 1896, was concluded in Justice Young's ourt yesterday and resulted in the de-fendants being held to the high court. As promised by the prosecution, some new evidence was introduced and it was of a startling character. The cause of the people was conducted during yesterthe people was conducted during yester-day by Deputy District Attorney Mc-Comas, and in the afternoon he called Nelson D. Williams of Azusa to the witness box. In the course of his exam-ination, Williams stated that on the day ination, Williams stated that on the day after the murder, he went to Puente in company with Undertaker Jenner of Azusa, and that shortly after he arrived in the little town of Puente, he approached a group of men, among whom were Sheriff Burr, and others. Just before he reached them, the men divided and three or four walked away. Two or three men were still standing and talking and after he had passed a few feet from them, he recognized George Mings and heard him distinctly say, "They are onto everything; it is all up with us now!"

Whether it was the effect that this evidence would have upon the court that caused George Mings's pallor is not known, but his features suddenly assumed an ashen hue and he did not remove his gaze from the witness during the sharp cross-examination that followed.

Sheriff Burr was the next witness the sharp close-called lowed.

Sheriff Burr was the next witness called and came into court with two dangerous looking guns. One was a 38-caliber Colt's double-action revolver, full of loaded cartdangerous icoking guns. One was a 38-caliber Colt's double-action revolver, with a magazine full of loaded cartridges. The other was also loaded, and was a rusty, wicked weapon, of about 44-caliber. There were two indentations at the end of the barrel and the stock showed some injury. This weapon was picked up on or near the railroad track, about 500 feet east of Puente and beyond George Mings's home. It was found ten days after the murder of "Jack" Hays.

Justice Young briefly reviewed the evidence and stated that while there was some variance in the statements of Bryant and young Dietzel, yet they were both positive as to the voice being that of George Mings and each had corroborated the other in the loud command to "pass on, and you too." The defendants were then held for trial in the Superior Court.

before Judge Smith and a jury yesterday.

Peter Muller, the owner of the saloon, was the first witness called by the prosecution. He said the men appeared to be talking at the time of the stabbing affray. Hubbert bled freely from a wound in the neck. Muller said he took the pocket-knife away from Noian, who refused to give any reason for the assault.

Dr. E. A. Bryant could not remember of the wounded man having been brought to the hospital. He thought the wound was slight, else he would have remembered the occurrence.

Police Officer Robbins arrested Noian, and said that when the defendant was searched at the station he declared he would like to kill a half-dozen more of such fellows.

John Noian now testified in his own behalf, and stated that he was a seafaring man, having gone aboard ship in 1856. In May, 1894, he went to the Solidiers' Home and remained there continuously until the 24th of last March. At that time he came to the city and was drinking for four or five days. On the Monday of the occurrence he went to the Cape Horn saloon having got acquainted with the proprietor during the previous days of his drinking bout; he remembered drinking, a great deal during the day, and in the afternoon he got sleepy or drowsy and sat down in a chair; he took out his knife and cut off a piece of tobacco, and must have fallen asleep with the knife open in his hands. The only thing he could remember was some one punching him in the ribs, and finally rubbing his hand over his face. Noian said he threw out his hands and thinks it was in this manner that the wound was unconsciously inflicted.

W. B. Clothier, captain of Co. C, at the Soldiers' Home, stated that he had been at the home since 1889, and had known the defendant for two years. He was nearly always at work, and he considered him the best man in his company. His reputation for truthfulness, peace and honesty was good, and he was respected by his associates.

The jury brought in a verdict of simple assault, and Judge Smith sentenced him to only thirty days in the County Jail, in view of the fact that he had been in durance for two months, awaiting trial.

SUIT AGAINST THE CITY.

Thousand Dollars.
The suit of the J. M. Griffith Company egainst the city of Los Angeles for 6550 and the further sum of $4012, for work performed upon the outfall sewer leading from the city to the Pacific Ocean, is in progress before Judge York. The work is alleged to have been performed by J. L. Mansfield and John formed by J. L. Mansfield and John Grant.

The above contractors transferred their claim to the plaintiff company. The city's defense is being conducted by City Attorney Dunn, who is pitted against Attorney Chapman. The contested claim is for construction of sections Nos. 3 and 6 of the outfall sewer. Los Angeles city sets up as a defense that the work was not properly done. As nearly $11,000 are involved, the cause is being vigorously prosecuted, and defended.

POLICE COURT.

Big Assortment of Petty Criminals

Three battered individuals, two wo-men and a man, sat in the prisoners' dock in Justice Owens's Police Court dock in Justice Owens's Police Court yesterday afternoon. They were charged with being drunk, but to all appearances they had been engaged in a slugging match of no small proportions. The man, James Allen, had his head swathed in bandages, and only a small portion of his face was visible, and that was covered with cuts and bloodstains. His wife, Maud, sat near him. Both her eyes were black and blue, and beside her sat Lizzle Smith, a colored woman. A long strip of court-plaster extended across her forchead, and one eye was badly swollen.

The trio were arrested in a room at Alameda and Allos streets by Officer Long, Sunday afternoon.

All three defendants attempted to explain the matter at the same time, and each had a different version to give of the affair. Justice Owens' fined Allen and Lizzle Smith $20 each and Mrs. Allen, $10. In lieu of the necessary amount they will work it out for the city.

W. J. Miller sat in Justice Owens's

W. J. Miller sat in Justice Owens's dock and rested his right foot over a chair. It was shoeless and badly swollen. Miller had sprained it while running away from Officer Henderson, Saturday night. He was charged with disturbing the peace and pleaded not guilty. A number of women were sworn in to testify in the case, among them a colored woman, who said her name was Lonely Banks. She looked the first part of her name, and was allowed to go, after telling what little she knew of the disturbance which the prisoner was accused of creating. There ner was accused of creating. Half a dozen painted and gaily-drossed damsels stepped toward the clerk's desk when Justice Owens called the case of Hans Erickson, charged with garnd larceny. Ella Faures, a young Frenchwoman with flashing black eyes, was the complainant. She took the stand, and through the medium of an interpreter related her story. She said Erickson had entered her place and after a quarrel had cut open her right stocking near the ankle and abstracted her pocketbook and them ran away. The stocking was unrolled by Deputy District Attorney James, who blushed crimson as he laid it on the clerk's desk. It was identified as the one which had held the pocketbook. The prosecution failed to make out a case against the accused, and he was discharged.

A thick-lipped negro arose when the name of Edward Jackson was called. Justice Owens asked if he had any reason to effer why he should not be sentenced for disturbing the peace by attempting to arrest an inoffensive citizen. Jackson, who is half-witted, replied that he wanted to make an explanation, but the justice told him that his time for explanations had passed. He was fined $50, and he sat down hued countenance.

William Hartman, who wanted to fight Officer Long for his freedom and was laid out by a left-handed swing on the jaw from the officer's fist, was assessed $5 on a charge of disturbing the peace.

W. W. Robinson, whose antipathy to W. W. Robinson, whose antipathy to going out of the Orpheum Theater Tuesday night through the saloon led him to strike Doorkeeper Lewis Norton, was fined $1 by Justice Owens.

E. F. Hueneman, who battered Harry Valiant because he would not work for $20 per month, was fined $10 by Justice Morrison.

Ah Man, a Chinese lottery-ticket seller, was fined $15 by Justice Morrison. Carber Brown, alias James Cline, who was arrested for stealing a bicycle from a clerk in Escondido, was turned over to an official from San Diego by Justice Owens.

TRAGEDY AT EAGLE ROCK. oung Richard K. Watson Drowned

The 16 servoir on Raper's ranch, near Eagle Rock, was the scene of a tragio occurrence Monday afternoon.
Richard K. Watson, a boy about 13 years pid, was drowned while rwimming in the reservoir. He was returning from school with five other boys, and when they reached the reservoir young Watson, with two of his companions, went in swimming. He swam once across and turned, but when half way back the other boys were horrified to see him throw up his hands and disappear from sight. They were unable to save him. The boys upon the shore ran to Watson's home, about a mile distant, where he lived with his mother and an older brother. The latter soon reached the reservoir and succeeded in recovering the body. All efforts at resuscitation proved fruitless.

THE SIXTH DAY.

TESTIMONY MEETING AT CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE CONVENTION.

Efficacy in Prayers of Faith-Young People's Fourfold Gospel Meet-ing - Testimony of Miraculous Healing.

The sixth day of the Christian Alliance Convention opened as usual with a praise and testimony meeting. At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. E. J. Scudder, the founder and superintendent of Faith-Mission at Santa Barbara, spoke first upon the theme of the prayer of faith. She first illustrated it by the faith God had given her for the life of her husband, who, twenty-five years ago, was raised up thereby from death in conpumption. Faith is the revelation of the will of God by the Holy Chast Feith veal his will in us and have us pray in faith for its accomplishment with absolute assurance that sees nothing as impossible.

Mr. Waddell followed with the theme of the ministry of prayer: "Lord, teach us to pray." Jesus never taught His disciples how to preach, though he taught them what to preach, but He taught them what to preach, but He taught them what to pray as well as what to pray. Jesus is the great prayer teacher. Men may speak about it, but the Holy Ghost must take those words and by them teach us inwardly. When the Holy Ghost descended upon them they came into the life and ministry of prayer in Jesus' name. What is prayer? What is life, and what is prayer? What is life, and what is prayer? What is life, and what is its ministry? For prayer is as distinct a ministry as that of the word, and all true ministry of word must spring vitally out of prayer. Prayer is not merely religious exercise, devotion, repetition, habit, but it is the activity of the Holy Ghost in us here in oneness with the business going on: in heaven. The only life to which God has called us is the life of prayer. We must live by prayer or we cannot live at all. Jesus' teachings on prayer only reveal the laws of the kingdom of heaven, so that we may be able to rule and to reign with Christ in spirit. We must come and speak face to face with God before we can pray in the name of Jesus in order to pray truly, we pray out of the consciousness of Christ in us. In His name, to the Father. If there is one thing necessary for us to learn in this school of prayer it is to wait, tarry in the closet until He can reward us openly. To pray in the name of Jesus is to be identified with Him in all our heing. The word of God is summed up when the Holy Ghost says amen in us. In the afternoon a young people's fourform, were simultaneously held-from 2 to 3 c'clock. Then Mrs. Carrie Judd Montgomery spoke on the Scriptural teaching of divine healing. She desired the passages not only to be ligtened to the continual helath is His continual life-giving work. Faith takes His "I am" and responds, "Lord, thou art the Lord that healeth me;" the promise is for now, this moment. Exodus, xxili, 25, "I will take sickness away from the midst of thee." Take the promise and begin to enjoy its fruits. It is continued for us, as well as for Israel "He shall bless thy bread and thy water;" this promise is better to stand upon than hygienic foods for dyspepsia. Get a promise of God that suits your case and stand upon it with both your feet. Deut. vil, 12-15. The evil diseases belong to Egypt, the type of the ungodly world, but they do not belong to God's people. Take their evil diseases. Deut. xxviii, and Lev. xxvi. are two chapters to be read all through in private study, and notice how often "hearken" occurs. God wants a people that will listen to Rim. Be like George Muller, a man or one book, the Bible, for faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God. In Deut. xxviii, not one disease or sickness will be found among the blessings, but great prominence is given to various diseases in the list of curses. But there is one that has borne all the curse, including that of diseases. "With His stripes we are healed." The Lord gives the light and lets us take nothing less than Jesus' death without our going away from Him. Many other references of Old and New Testament were cited. She closed the list with the plain, clear direction of James v, 14-16, directing that God's sick shall have the elders of the church pray to Him over them and anoint them with, oil in type of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit through the name of Jeaus in quickening to the mortal body, in its weakness and sickness.

Dr. F. E. Yoakum then gave his testimony of miraculous healing, taking for his text, Acts ill, 16: "And his name, through faith in His name, hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know; yea, the faith which is by Him hath presence of you ail." Nearly two years ago he was driven upon by a drunken man and so severely injured, that a

TALK OF THE WEATHER.

The Conditions Existing During the Past Week.

The climatic and crop bulletin of the weather bureau for the week ending Monday, June 1, as compiled by Observer George E. Franklin, reports:
The hot wave of the previous week continued during the early portion of the week just closed but with diminishing intensity and with the weather gradually returning to normal conditions. The warm weather was very favorable for haying, which is in full progress, and brought up beans, but at the same time it rapidly absorbed the soil moisture which was in a measure compensated by light rains at the close of the week and frequent fogs. Fruits ripened fast under the influence of the warm sunshine and corn made a rapid growth. No damage has been reported from the excessive heat.

San Luis Obispo county—San Luis Obispo city: Beans, flax and grain are soloking; well. Haying is in full progress with a good crop. The fruit and grape crops are short. Traces of rain fell during the week.

Ventura county—Bardsdale: The weather has been warm and favorable. Hay is yielding better than expected; prine trees are still blossoming. Beans are coming up well and alfalfa hay is a good crop. West Saticoy: The extreme heat of the first part of the week rippined hay and brought up the recently-planted beans. The heat evaporated much moisture from the ground but later fogs and light showers freshened things up greatly. Highest temperature 102 deg.; lowest, 52 deg.

Los Angeles county—Los Angeles city: The weather continued warm the first part of the week with the temperature ranging greatly in excess of the normal; the remainder of the week was cooler with a near approach to normal conditions. Sprinkling rains fell on the 28th and 29th. The highest temperature was 96 deg.; lowest, 53 deg. La Cañada: The temperature ranged high the first part of the week, causing rapid growth of fruit trees and vines; everything in this line is looking well. The weather was threatening on the 28th and 29th, but only a few large drops fell. The highest temperature was 91 deg.; lowest, 64 deg. Pasadena: The hot wave of last week culminated on Monday with the temperature rising to 100 deg.; it cooled off, and, on the 28th, a sprinkle occurred, and on the 28th heavy showers prevailed in the mountains with occasional showers in the valley; the end of the week was warm again. The heat ripened hay rapidly; so far as known no damage was done by the heat.

a detachment of the Salvation Army, playing a concertina.

The willful and continued-violation of the ordinance by the Salvation Army has made that organization the subject of severe criticism, the City Attorney also coming in for a share, because of the delay in bringing the cases to trial, and the unsatisfactory state of things prevailing. The arrest Monday evening was made by one of the police-officers under the power given to any citizen to make a complaint when an ordinance is violated.

The City Attorney presented an opinion on the matter of a proposed franchise for a boathouse and ferry on and from the beach. The opinion held that if such a privilege were to be granted for more than two years it devolved upon the city to advertise such a franchise for sale. The City Attorney said he understood that the District Attorney was of the opinion that the county had the authority to grant such a franchise. This was a matter, said the City Attorney, which ought to be determined, otherwise serious complications were liable to ensue, for the county might grant franchises which would interfere with public works established by the city.

Trustee Roth moved that Trustee Carrillo be allowed his expenses for going to San Diego to investigate seawater street-sprinkling, but Mr. Carrillo declined it with thanks, saying he was glad to do something for the city.

Trustee Hostetter moved to declare vacant the positions of A. L. Forsyth and Juan Solgado as nightwatchmen, which motion carried by a vote of Trustees Gillis, Hostetter and Jones, Trustees Carrillo and Roth voting against it.

It was then moved by Trustee Gillis that a police department of two men be oreated, their salaries to be $50 per month each and each of them be allowed $25 additional for a uniform, that sum to be paid after three months' service, if such service is satisfactory to the board. This motion prevalled by a vote of Trustees Gillis, Hostetter and Jones, Trustees Carrillo and Roth voting in the negative.

City Marshal Dexter inquired if he were to have nothing to say in reference to the services of the men being satisfactory, but none of the supporters of the motion condescended to reply.

By the votes of Trustees Gillis, Hostetter and Jones Messrs. Forsyth and George F. See were elected members of the police department, a numerously-signed petition being presented in favor of the appointment of Mr. See. Trustees Roth and Carrillo voted unsuccessfully for Juan Solgado and W. E. Webb for those positions. Trustee Carrillo particularly urged the fitness of Mr. Solgado, saying he had served the city faithfully for years. On motion of Trustee, Roth, Eulogio Carrillo was elected City Engineer to fill the vacancy, caused by the resignation of Mr. James.

REDLANDS.

The High School Accredited in All

REDLANDS, June 2.—(Regular Correspondence.) The High School Trustees are still working over the bids received for the addition to the building, and it is thought the contract will be let in the course of the present week. The High School, for the first time in its history, has been accredited in every department to the State University as a result of recent examinations of the work done here by the professors of the university.

The trustees of the Redlands school district are having new plans made for the East State-street building to come within the estimated cost of $1500.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Los Angeles, June 2, 1896.
RUSSIAN FINANCIERS. Russian influence in the Orient is augmented by the operations of the Russo-Chinese Bank which was organized under a de-cree of the Czar last December with $5,000,000 of Russian capital and under Russian management. Branches of this bank are being opened in Japan as well as in China, and it is asserted that the managers of the concern have unthe managers of the concern have under consideration the establishment of a similar bank in New York to be run under the auspices of the Russian government. Thus it is that the Muscovites are seeking to enlarge their sphere in the financial world.

BRANCH NATIONAL BANKS.

"There is still discussion in the newspapers of the proposed establishing of branches of national banks in small towns. This would meet with the approval of the administration, and a great many bankers are of the opinion that such a measure would be of great value. There are branches of Scottish banks located in small towns in Scotland, and these have proven not only profitable but of great benefit to the people and to the banks themselves," says the Financial Review of Chicago.

COMMERCIAL.

NEW YORK CLEARING-HOUSE.

"There is no feature which distinguishes the old from the modern system of banking in any greater degree than does the method of settling balances due to and from banks through the mechanism of the clearing-house. The transition can be traced from the clumsy plan whereby porters were employed to carry the exchanges back and forth among the several banks to the system under which the representatives of the banks meet at a specified place and settle transactions, which represent millions by the payment of only a small percentage of actual cash. The system can be illustrated in no better way than by a brief description of the method under which the New York clearing-house operates," says the United States Investor. The Los Angeles clearing-house and the clearing-houses of other cities are run on the same principles, with some modifications as to rules, hours of settling, etc. Of course the amounts of exchanges and balances of the Los Angeles clearing-house are almost infinitesimal compared with New York, but the system of transacting business is the same. Where two and three clerks are rebounce are almounts or exchanges and balances of the Los Angeles clearing-house are almost infinitesimal compared with New York, but the system of transacting business is the same. Where two and three clerks are required to represent each bank in the New York clearing-house, one is sufficient in Los Angeles, and the session usually lasts only about half an hour. The New York clearing-house was organized in August, 1853, and the first exchange was made on October 11 of the same year. The association originally numbered fifty-two members; sixty-six banks are now represented in the membership, having an aggregate capital of $61,122,700, a surplus of $74,318,000, and deposits amounting to $497,993,300. In addition these banks clear for eighty-one institutions, which are not members of the association, such as trust companies. The assistant treasurer of the United States at New York is also a member. The clearing-room is situated on the third floor of the magnificent marble edifice but recently completed. It receives its light through the great dome which caps the building. Each bank has a desk of its own. These desks are arranged in four parallel rows, with seventeen desks to each row. Several feet above the floor at one end of the room is the manager's gallery. On the floor below are situated the administration offices. Here also the different balances are received and paid out. It costs a bank a little something to become a member of the association. The bank whose capital does not exceed $5,000,000 must pay an initiation fee of $5000. When the capital exceeds $6,000,000 has the balance necessary after that amount, pro rata according to the average amount which they shall have sent to the clearing-house for the preceding year.

The representatives of the banks assemble at the clearing-house and hank $200, and the balance necessary after that amount, pro rata according to the average amount which they shall have sent to the clearing-house for the preceding year.

The representatives of the banks assemble at the cl amounts due from and to his bank are soon determined. Between the hours of 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., the debtor banks of 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., the debtor banks are obliged to pay to the manager of the clearing-house the balances against them, either in actual coin, United States legal-tender notes, or legal-tender certificates, except fractional amounts. At 1:30 p.m., the creditor banks receive from the manager the respective balances due to them provided all the balances due from the debtor banks shall have been paid. The largest exchange evar brought to the clearing-house by any one bank was $31,772,391. The largest balance paid by any bank was 10,585 471, and the smallest 75 cents. The average daily exchanges Jast year amounted to $92,570,995 and the average balances were $6,218,276.

OIL REFINERY. The new oil refinery on Ninth street near the river has been in operation since the 10th of last month. The present capacity is sixty barrels a day, but with additions that are now being made, the capacity will be increased to 150 barrels. Asphaltum and distillates of petroleum of good quality are being produced. No kerosene is made. When this refinery gets to running in full blast it will very materially help to keep up the market for crude petroleum, as 150 barrels a day is a nice addition to the local demand.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS. TELEPHONE SWINDLES. Regarding the establishment of new telephone systems, the New York Advertiser of systems, the New York Advertiser of May 14, says:

"Several ways and means have been discovered for making and losing money by phones since the expiration of the fundamental telephone patents. One way it to start a large and imposing concern, with nominal capital enough to run the United States, acquire a few obscure detail patents and then sell stock and "State rights" to credulous investors. Another is to start a local company, and put in a plant bought from one of the various telephone construction companies that have blossomed forth from electric bell-makers' establishments during the last year or two. Still another is to organize one of these construction companies and trade on the inexpecience and lack of technical knowledge of the managers of the new telephone companies by supplying them with phones and materials of the quality and design of the year 1880. A few men get together and organize, making themselves president, manager, and so on the business of their lifetime may have been medicine, law, groceries or livery stables, but with the few thousand dollars they and their friends have gotten together they purchase a telephone plant from one of the various mushroom construction companies that have appeared in anticipation of just such customers. By appealing to popular sentiment against monopolies and May 14. says:

to the love of cheapness, and by abstaining from anything in the nature of a signed contract, they secure a number of "subscribers"—that is, persons willing to allow them to put phones in their houses and to make verbal agreement to pay $1.50 or $2.00 a month for the service. The wires and cables are strung; the phones put in piace (generally by inefficient linemen unable to keep a regular job) the central is fitted up, and then the troubles begin. The wires won't work, the switchboard won't switch, the phones won't talk, and of course, the people won't pay. The worthy president and general manager are helpless, and the only thing they can do is to send for an expert of the construction company that has already victimized them, who proceeds to suggest alterations and additions involving more outlay. This is the history of several small telephone companies in towns not very distant from New York, and of many in Western States. Those, who, without technical experience or training, embark in telephone enterprises today are simply setting out from the point that the established concerns started from when the telephone was a novelty. Their money, or the money intrusted to them, will be sunk in trials and experiments and in acquiring the experience and knowledge of the business, which, so far, remains the monopoly of the old companies."

There is food for reflection in the foregoing.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Wheat showed a good deal of activity today. During the first hour the weakness carried over from yesterday, the one-ponny break in Liverpool and big Northwestern receipts, amounting to 686 cars, set the pace for a time and the selling was so vicious and the support so feeble, that it did not take long for July after opening it die on take long for July after opening it die on the long-looked-for 55c mark seemed in sight. But the down turn came to a sudden halt; shorts began to absorb the offerings to secure profits; there were some country orders received and sellers withdrew. French cables then began to report a bad outlook for the French crop, owing to the prolonged drought, and these reports were partially confirmed by the higher quotations from Paris. Then came the liberal clearances form New York, nearly 500,000 bushels in wheat and four and the sentiment was materially strengthened. The covering by early sellers and the evidence of some speculative buying gradually developed a better reaction than has been experiend for some time, the raily being ened. A JURY SECURED TO TRY THE HEARNE LIBEL CASE.

SAN DIEGO, June 2.—(Regular Correspondence.) The first day of the trial of the fibel suit of Dr. J. C. Hearne against the San Francisco Chronicle and J. F. Blunt for $100,000 damages for articles published referring to Hearne's Missouri career, resulted in excusing most of the men summoned by the Supervisors throughout the county, as a special venire. Not a single juror was accepted. Nine men are yet in the box, subject to challenge. The presiding justice in the case, Judge Van Dyke of Los Angeles, directed the Sheriff to summon a venire of twenty electors from the body of the county to attend court this morning, where the jury-selecting process is being continued before an interested audience. John P. Young, managing editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, is one of the men watching this case intently. In fact, the whole press of the State is watching for the verdict in this case with more than usual interest. The Chronicle printed articles, the substance of which had been printed repestedly in other newspapers. connecting the name of Dr. Hearne with a pestance of which had been printed repeatedly in other newspapers connecting the name of Dr. Hearne with a peculiarly atrocious murder in Missouri.
A grand jury in Missouri indicted Hearne for the murder referred to. Before indictment Hearne had sued for libel. Hearne was tried and acquitted of the murder charge. How it will be possible to find guilty of libel a newspaper printing an article connecting Hearne's name with a murder, for which murder the grand jury found an

The Hon. Thomas Fitch of Phoenix, Ariz., was one of the attentive listeners in the courtroom this morning. He looked as fresh as the carnation pink in his buttonhole, and his striking personal appearance made him the cynosure of many eyes. Mr. Fitch is enjoying the coolness of the bay region, where, during the famous boom of 1887, he helped make town-lot investors more eager to invest by the elegance of the diction of his verbal and written utterances, which were well-nigh classic.

SAN DIEGO, June 2.—A jury was secured this morning in the case of Hearne vs. De Young, and the triat opened this afternoon. Dr. J. C. Hearne sues for $100,000 damages for alleged libel on the part of the San Francisco Chronicle, in connecting him with the murder of Amos Stiliwell at Hannibal, Mo. December 26, 1883.

The attorneys for the plaintiff in opening the case said they expected to prove that the article in question, sent by the correspondent of the Chronicle from San Diego, charged Dr. Hearne with the murder of Stiliwell, or of completity in it, and that the publication was malicious; that Dr. Hearne was damaged in business and reputation in the sum stated, and that the financial condition of De Young was such as to make heavy damage proper.

The case came to a deadlock with the first witness who was called to testify that he had understood from reading the article that Hearne was charged with the murder. The defendant objected to this on the ground that the court and not the jury was required to judge as to whether such a construction of language used was a reasonable one.

In the course of argument the de-tion of language used was a reasonable one.

In the course of argument the defendant's attorneys said the article at most could only be held to charge that Hearne was suspected of the murder. They drew the difference between charging him with being under suspicion and the direct charge of murder or complicity in murder. The plaintiff declared that the article by innuendo charged him with murder. Judge Van Dyke of Los Angeles, who is presiding, did not wish to decide this important point without hearing authorities, and the plaintiff promised to present them tomorrow morning. At that time the court will rule as to whether the Chronicle article, reasonably construed. Charged Hearne with murder.

The decision of this point will in a great measure forethadow the outcome of the case.

Santa Barbara Walnut Growers Effect a Permanent Organization.

Santa Barbara, June 2.— (Regular Correspondence.) The Walnut growers of Santa Barbara met again this afternoon at the City Hall and proceeded to effect a permanent organization. Elwood Cooper was chosen chairman and F. E. Kellogs of Goleta secretary. The constitutions and bylaws of other organizations of walnut-growers in Southern California were read and commented on, after which the constitution prepared by the committee in charge to be submitted at this meeting was read, discussed and carefully amended, with a view to fitting it to local requirements.

The object of the association is to handle the product of the walnut-growers of this section of this county and to find the most suitable market. The constitution submitted was drafted from the one now in force with the Fullerton Walnut-Growers' Association. It does not contemplate any specific amount of capital stock, but each member of the association will yote according to the number of trees in his orchard, fifty trees entitling him to membership and one vote. Each hundred trees entitles him to an extra vote. After an interesting two-hours' session the meeting adjourned to mean, to complete the work of organization. The graduating class of the High School of this city is making preparations for double graduating exercises. The class-day exercises will occur on the evening of June 10, and will be of a social and literary nature. The regular commencement exercises, including presentations of diplomas, will be on Friday evening, June 12, at the M. E. Church. The address of the evening will be made by Prof. Greggs of Stanford, who delivered the address at the Santa Maria commencement last week.

ON ARLINGTON LAWN. The Channel City Marine Band gave a lawn concert last evening on the Arlington Hotel grounds. The rustic seats about the grounds were hidden from view by the standing crowds, and leaning room along the fence line was at a premium. The evening was a little too cool to be called perfect, but music too cool to be called perfect, but music hath charms and the delighted crowds hung about until a late hour.

The programme was composed, for the most part, of familiar selections, each being somebody's favorite, and each on the list by request. With the players, the piece in hand was the only one worthy of attention. They gave a good concert and promise many more just like it.

Iowa Man Takes Strychnine—Fire at Hesperia. SAN BERNARDINO, June 2.—(Regu-SAN BERNARDINO, June 2.—(Regular Correspondence.) It has just been learned that a man giving the name of Fred Howard, who claims to belong in Webster City, Iowa, was found in the rear of the motor depot Saturday afternoon with symptoms of strychnine poisoning. He was taken to the County Hospital, where he recovered under medical treatment. He said he had had 488, though but $1.20 was found in his pockets. He admitted that he had been drinking, but, would not say where, when of a sudden everything became bjank to him.

Papers found on his person, the nature of which the officers do not divulge, indicate that he is wanted in Kansas City. The officers have telegraphed to that city for instructions.

RRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR THE G.A.R. ENCAMPMENT.

in this County from July 4 to 11.

A Big Celebration in Prospect.

News Notes.

VENTURA, June 2 .- (Regular Corbusiest people in this county at this time. The work of preparation for the encampment is now very nearly com-pleted, and order is coming out of chaos. Monday afternoon and evening pleted, and order is coming out of chaos. Monday afternoon and evening final arrangements were completed for the reception of the camp equipage, which, it is estimated, will this year occupy nearly double the space heretofore occupied. At the meeting in the afternoon, which was held in the office of County Auditor Browne, there were present Hon. N. Blackstock, Col. W. H. A. Thompson, Capt. Frank Hobart, Capt. A. W. Browne and John C. Wray of the local committees, and Col. John Brooker and William Nordholt of Los Angeles, representing the G.A. R. and National Guard respectively. Col. Brooker said that at this writing the applications for tents exceeded last year, and that the coming encampment, would unquestionably exceed all past gatherings in general interest. It was found on comparison of notes, between the local and general committees, that the plaza would not accommodate the numbers who have notified the committee that they wanted space, and arrangements were at once completed to secure additional ground space on adjacent property. This was done and the room now available will be amply sufficient to meet all demands. Thursday, July 9.—Sons of Veterans and National Guard day. Programme day and night by Sons of Veterans and National Guard of California.

Friday, July 10.—Association day. Business meeting of the Association, to conclude at night with an old-fashioned campfire, and then strike tents and march away.

At the meeting Monday evening a special appropriation was raised to provide forage and stabling for Troop D, N.G. C., of Los Angeles, who will camp here during the first ten days of July. The troop will leave Los Angeles July 1 and make a regular military march from Los Angeles to Ventura. They will participate in the Fourth of July parade, as will Cos. H and E of the Seventh Regiment, orders to that effect having been issued from regimental headquarters. The G.A.R. will have the right of the line as guests of honor. In all it is espected that, including all military and civic organizations, fully 2500 men will be in line. Word from Washington indicates that the frigate Philadelphia, will be ordered here for the days of the encampment. W. H. Barnes of San Francisco has written to hold the date open for him for, the Fourth of July oration, as bar accident he will be on hand.

The city government of Santa Barbara will attend in a body, having decided in regular meeting to coöperate with the Ventura authorities in the celebration of the Fourth.

No trace has as yet been discovered of Tung Yick, the murderer of Hop Yick. Chinatown and every Chinese garden has been thoroughly "drag-netted" for the missing Mongolian, but metted" for the missing Mongolian, but with no results.

Meanwhile every constable in the county is on the keen scent for glory and the Chinaman. Monday a constable at Montalvo stood the local heathen up in a row, and made them go through the modern steps to prove that they were not lame. The murderer is a very lame Chinaman, and it will be well for all lame heathen to carry identification papers about with them. Sheriff Charleboise is working hard, and about the only chapte the Chinaman has of util-mate escape is to fly, as he is badly crippled and cannot walk.

ATHENA SOCIETY ENTERTAINS. Yearly Exercises of the Girls of the

A large audience assembled in the college chapel of the University of Southern California last evening, to enjoy the annual exercises of the Athena Literary Society, composed of the young women of the University. The stage and organ were appropri-ately decorated with pepper boughs, no flowers being in view other than the many lovely bouquets presented to the many lovely bouquets presented to the performers.

The programme was opened with an invocation by Dean Phillips, after which Miss Grace Phillips sang "At the Ferry." Then followed a reading, "The Whistling Regiment," by Miss Agnes Ward; an essay, "Life a Mosaic," by Miss Dora Swain; the presentation of a diploma to Miss Edna Marsh by the president, Miss Florence Tilden, on behalf of the society; a selection by the University of Southern California orchestra, "The Serenade," and a vocal solo, "My Dreams," by Miss Dora Swain.

The entertainment was closed with a butterfly and flower-girl physical culture drill, under the direction of Maud Willis, executed by:

Misses—

Sterling, Griscome.

The butterflies were dressed in white, pale green and pink tarleton, while the flower-girls wore blue, yellow and lavender of the same material. The gausy costumes, with the graceful evolutions, produced a striking effect. The efforts of the young women drew forth the hearty applause of the audience.

Miss Marsh was the recipient of a beautiful water-color, painted by Prof. De Conte, of the Art School, as a gift from the members of the society.
